Aldermen Appropriated Refunds to Work Relief

State Refund of $16,251 Turned Over to Work Relief Here—No Refund Received Yet on Last Bond Issue—Farm Bureau Wants Daylight Saving Repealed—Other Matters at Council Meeting.

City Treasurer James H. Betts reported to the common council Tuesday evening that the local emergency work relief committee on May 1 had a balance of $33,224.85 left of the last $100,000 bond issue authorized by the aldermen to carry on work relief here, and that the state emergency work relief had refunded the sum of $16,251 on the previous $55,000 bond issue. The council unanimously voted to appropriate the $16,251 to the work relief here. Among other matters receiving attention was the filing of a communication from the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureaus asking the council to rescind the daylight saving time ordinance, and the appointing of a committee to consider the complaint of Mrs. Catherine Burger of 611 Delaware avenue in regard to a building next to her property, which she said was a disgrace to the neighborhood as it had no roof on and but three sides standing.

Grave Markers.

Alderman Zucca said his attention had been called to the fact that there were 50 soldiers buried in Kingston cemeteries who had never belonged to any veterans' association and as a result their graves were not marked on Memorial Day when the graves of other soldiers were marked. He said he was introducing a resolution authorizing the building and supply committee to purchase 50 grave markers. Permission was granted and the placing of the markers will be given attention by Deputy City Clerk Sam N. Mann, who is commander of Kingston Post of the American Legion.

Acoustics and Fireworks.

Alderman Zucca also called attention to the stringing of wires in the council chamber to improve the acoustics and said that several had told him that there was some improvement. However, he said, Mr. Graf, who installed the wires, was present at the meeting and undoubtedly would make some further changes to improve the acoustics.

The traffic control committee submitted a report favoring the placing of a "Stop" sign on Davis street at Abeel street, and a "No U Turn" on McEntee street at Wurts street.

Alderman Doheny said that he was a member of the traffic control committee and wanted to know why a traffic signal in the Twelfth ward was not lighted.

Reports on Armory

Alderman McGrane reported that he had seen the chairman of the board of supervisors in regard to turning over to the city the old armory on Broadway and had been assured that the chairman favored it and would take the matter up with the county attorney and let Alderman McGrane know. That was the last the alderman had heard of the matter but he understood that the supervisors were to meet later in the month and that the council committee would then meet with them.

In the meantime Alderman McGrane said he did not think it wise for the city to go ahead and make repairs to the old armory until the city held the deed.

President Heiselman agreed with Alderman McGrane and said that while the building needed a new floor during the recent firemen's indoor circus the floor had held 3,500 one evening and he believed it would be all right for the convention to be held here in June to use the building.

Water Board Acts

At the meeting of the council last month a committee was appointed to wait on the water board to find out why owners of automobiles were charged water rent.

Alderman Neice reported that the committee had waited on the water board and were informed that the water board was eliminating from all its bills the items of "heaters, horses and automobiles."

Daylight Saving Time

The Ulster County Farm and Home Bureaus in a communication asked that the aldermen repeal the present daylight saving ordinance which has been in effect for a number of years. On motion the communication was ordered filed.

Another Bus Terminal

Alderman McGrane of the bus committee reported that Mr. Brown of the Brown Servicenter on central Broadway had informed him that the New York bus line which had been using the center for a bus terminal had leased the Lowe garage and would shortly use that for its terminal. Mr. Brown suggested that the Servicenter be used as a bus terminal for all buses.

Alderman Epstein said that originally there were only three bus terminals in the city, one on the strand, one on Thomas street and the other on Crown street, but now buses used the Governor Clinton Hotel, the Servicenter and other places for terminals. He believed

Firemen Hurt in Island Dock Fire

Edward Noble of Central Fire Station in Kingston Hospital With Possible Fractured Ribs—George Bilyou of Union Hose Overcome by Smoke—Fire in Woodworking Plant.

Fireman Edward Noble of the Central Fire Station is in the Kingston Hospital with possible fractured ribs and badly bruised about the body as the result of injuries sustained while fighting a fire Tuesday evening at the Island Dock shipyard. George Bilyou, a member of Union Hose Company, was overcome by smoke but after receiving treatment at the Kingston Hospital was able to return to his home in Ponckhockie. The fire was in the two story frame woodworking plant on the Island Dock, and was brought under control about 1 o'clock this morning.

John A. Murray was standing in the rear of the Cornell Hose house on Abeel street shortly after 8 o'clock Tuesday evening and while looking down at the Island Dock he saw smoke issuing from the woodworking plant and told Fireman Geary on duty at the fire house who turned in an alarm to the Central Fire Station.

The woodworking plant is of frame construction. There is no cellar under it. The first floor has a plank flooring and sawdust from the machines fell through the flooring to the ground below. Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said that apparently the fire had started under this plank flooring and spread along the entire length of the building and then had worked its way up to the second floor setting fire to the inside of the roof but not eating its way through.

The fire made a dense smoke and was hard to fight. The fire department used two pumpers pumping water from the Rondout creek onto the fire.

Fireman Noble is a member of the paid fire department. He was injured when in the darkness he slipped and fell into a concrete hole near the plant. He was pulled out and hurried to the hospital for treatment.

Lighting facilities on the yard are not of the best as no night work is done on the yard and the firemen were forced to use flashlights and also turn the fire apparatus so that the headlights played on the building.

Although there was no bell alarm the news spread quickly that there was a fire on the Island Dock and a large number of interested spectators watched the fire from the Rondout Creek Bridge and other points of vantage.

Residents Objected To a Gas Station

Boulevard Residents File Objections to Building of Drive-in Station Near Entrance to New TB Hospital at Public Hearing Tuesday Evening.

Gottlieb I. Stastny and his wife have petitioned the common council to amend the zoning ordinance so as to include two lots they have purchased on the Boulevard in the business zone. The lots at present are in the residential zone. The Stastnys are anxious to erect a drive-in gas station on the property which is located near the entrance to the new TB Hospital. Attorney Daniel Hoffman represented the Stastnys at the public hearing held Tuesday evening by the laws and rules committee of the common council, while Attorney Walter Miller appeared for several residents in that locality who objected to having a gas station opposite their properties. Those who filed an objecting petition were Mrs. Walter J. Kidd, Mrs. A. Johnson, R. Tillson, Herman Richter, Peter Ambruster and M. Gruberg.

Mr. Hoffman also filed a petition favoring the gas station signed by Mr. Richter.

After both sides had discussed the matter Mr. Hoffman suggested that the matter be held open and the committee visit the scene and view the property before submitting a report to the council.

A public hearing was also held on the application of Edward Osterhoudt to have his property at 192 Greenkill avenue placed in the business zone. No one appeared in opposition. Later at the meeting of the common council the Osterhoudt petition was granted.

Variety of Subjects Draw Attention of Public Works Board

Bids For Traffic Paint and Road Patching Given to Local Firms—Number of Other Matters Were Disposed of.

Bids for traffic paint to be used in painting safety zones and marking pavements were received by the Board of Public Works at a meeting Tuesday evening. At the same time the board also received bids for road patching material and both contracts were given to local people.

The road patching asphalt contract went to the Lansdell Company of Teller street, who submitted a bid of 13 cents per gallon at the platform of the Kingston plant but a representative of the company stated that in case the city's trucks were tied up at any time the company would be willing to deliver the material or cooperate in any way with the city officials. The material may be delivered as required. The Lansdell Company recently located in Kingston and the management is anxious to give service and demonstrate what the company can do according to the representative who was present at the board meeting.

Three bids were received for the white traffic paint. Specifications and requirements were stated at the time bids were solicited. The first bid opened was from the R. E. Craft Company at the Great Bull Market. Their bid for Lowe Brothers paint was $1.45 per gallon in five gallon drums. I. Shapiro of North Front street submitted a bid of $1.15 for Devoe paint and Mr. Church submitted a bid for $1.85 a gallon. The street superintendent was authorized to purchase 200 gallons from I. Shapiro at $1.15 as required.

The matter of installing a new motor in the big five ton White truck which is used to haul ashes, was discussed. The present motor is worn out. A bid was submitted for renewing the motor, transmission and clutch for $300. The bid for the motor and equipment, together with a generator and battery was $335. The motor to be supplied is a guaranteed reconditioned motor. At present the truck has no generator and the battery must be recharged for lights frequently. The matter was referred to the board for investigation.

A communication was received from the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation relative to a communication referred to the board in regard to a light at First avenue and Ulster street. The matter was originally brought to the attention of Alderman Long by a taxpayer, who complained that the light formerly there had been removed. The matter was referred to the board of public works for investigation. This board took up the matter with the lighting company. The communication stated that there had never been a light at that location and that the present pole there had been in position for ten years and gave no evidence of ever having had a light attached to it. The communication stated that the alderman evidently had been misinformed by the taxpayer.

A communication was also received from the board of fire commissioners regarding the unsafe condition of the service station at Hurley and Washington avenues owned by William D. Ryan. The communication stated that tenants occupied the structure upstairs and that it was in an unsafe condition to the occupants and also the public, as the walls were spreading and the general condition was considered unsafe. The communication was referred to the corporation counsel.

Street Superintendent W. Scott Van Keuren made a report on the progress of patching streets. He said that many streets were in need of patching and that this work had been taken up and many of the main arteries had been attended to. Holes are patched with either hot or cold asphalt patching material and the work was being done now as rapidly as weather conditions would permit. A number of streets have already been taken care of and the work will be continued.

Mr. Van Keuren also reported that he had caused the dust shed at the city crushing plant to be rebuilt. The roof had caved in and it was necessary to rebuild it. He also brought to the attention of the board the matter of placing a roof over the crushed stone. In patching streets it was necessary to have the stone dry before asphalt could be mixed with it. If the stone was wet the binder would not adhere. Frequently he said it stormed and the stone was wet the following day when it was clear and good working weather. This delayed the patching work. It was suggested that a roof be placed over the stone used for patching in order that work might be facilitated.

The board also authorized the rounding off of the curb and sidewalk at the northeast corner of Broadway and Strand opposite the bank in order that the curve could be widened to facilitate traffic at that narrow point. The matter of cutting the curve at Pearl and Wall streets on the St. Joseph's school property and also in front of the church on Main and Wall streets was discussed and it was moved that this matter be taken up with the church authorities.

Specifications will be prepared and bids solicited by the board for oil for oiling the outlying streets to lay dust. The city engineer and street superintendent were authorized to seek bids.

The board then adjourned.

Administration Inflation Program Approved By House

Washington, May 3 (AP).—The House of Representatives today approved the administration inflation program as already passed by the Senate.

Comparing with the impressive 64 to 21 Senate vote last week, the representatives polled 307 in favor and 86 opposed to the broad currency powers to be vested in President Roosevelt. This completed congressional action on the inflation set up.

The roll call followed immediately on a voice vote to differ with the Senate on amendment made to the massive Farm Relief bill, sending the measure to conference with the other branch for compromise on differences.

Six hours of debate were concluded last night on the inflation proposal, opposed by the Republican leadership.

Democratic inflationists at every turn trounced the drastic efforts of the Republicans to defeat the proposal, already adopted by the Senate.

Speaker Rainey had indicated separate votes would be had on the gold content and silver sections of the bill, but to the surprise of many this did not materialize. Republican Leader Snell had demanded such procedure.

The main controversy as between Senate and House on the farm bill is expected to be the Norris-Simpson "production cost guarantee" plan.

Some members of the conference committees already have gone into the differences informally, and the Democratic leadership expects agreement by the end of the week. This would make it possible to get the legislation to the White House for signature without further delay, inasmuch as no difficulty is expected in having both branches sanction the compromises that might be reached.

Aged Man Helps Self To Rolls And Bread

Police Department has Received Several Complaints From Householders Who Missed Their Breakfast Rolls—Other Cases in Police Court.

For a number of mornings householders in the vicinity of Wall street when they went out into the hallway or on the porch to get the rolls or bread the baker had left for their breakfast they would find no rolls or bread. The baker was positive he left them and as a result the police department received several complaints that some one was evidently stealing the foodstuffs.

About 6 o'clock this morning Charles Elting, 75 years old, of 75 Henry street, was seen enter a doorway on Wall street near St. James street and come out with a bag of rolls in his arms. He was promptly arrested by Officer Boss.

Later in police court the aged man said that he and his wife lived alone at the Henry street address and that he had been helping himself to rolls since early spring.

Owing to the advanced age of the man Judge Culloton adjourned the case until Friday so that an investigation could be made.

Patrick Cassidy and Joseph J. Smith, who claimed San Francisco as their home town, were arrested for public intoxication on Broadway on Tuesday. This morning each was sentenced to five days in the county jail.

George Bailey of Ann street was arrested early this morning by Mrs. Esther Chambers and turned over to the police on a charge of disorderly conduct. The Chambers and the Bailey families live in the same house. Mr. Bailey claimed he had started the radio going about midnight and that the members of the Chambers family had called down to him to shut it off and he said he told them to mind their own business. Mrs. Chambers, however, told a different story. She said Mr. Bailey was intoxicated. Judge Culloton after hearing both stories sentenced George to 10 days in jail.

Community Center to Hold Spring Meeting

A spring "get-together" meeting will be held by the senior members of the Jewish Community Center on Thursday evening, May 4, at 8 o'clock. All members of the Men's Club, Ladies' Auxiliary and Young People's League and their friends are invited to attend.

The meeting will be addressed by interesting and well known speakers, who will talk on topics of timely interest and great importance to all. The committee in charge expresses the hope that each group will be well represented. Refreshments will be served.

The Young People's League will hold its business meeting prior to attending the get-together.

DODGE INVITED TO PROMOTE GOOD MUSIC

An invitation has been sent to Harry P. Dodge to represent Kingston on the Ulster-Orange-Dutchess organizing committee for the promotion of good music which will meet in Skinner Hall, Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, Monday evening, May 8, at 8 o'clock. At the meeting there will be discussed the most direct means of bringing the educational and cultural work of the New York Music Week Association to the eastern part of the state. Nearly 1,000 music lovers of the three counties named have been asked to attend the meeting. Besides Mr. Dodge, well known to all in musical circles of Kingston, others invited to the session are Miss Jennie Lee Dann of New Paltz and Jacob H. Strong of Rhinebeck.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, May 3 (AP).—Treasury receipts for May 1 were $36,317,916.63; expenditures $18,005,540.82; balance $329,064,366.79. Customs duties for May 1 were $1,051,027.91.

Wets-Drys Prepare Check On Petitions

Albany, N. Y., May 3 (AP).—Both wets and drys in New York state today made a final check on their petitions for delegates to the state prohibition repeal convention and prepared to file the names of their candidates with the secretary of state before midnight tonight.

The petitions will bear thousands of signatures and will be carted to the capitol in huge bales.

The drys have obtained approximately 50,000 signers for their petitions, the Rev. O. R. Miller, who is directing the dry campaign, said today. No estimate could be obtained from the wets, but it was said that their list contained more signatures than that of the drys.

Indications were today that there would be only two lists of candidates, those "for repeal" and "against repeal." Henry G. Adams, head of the election bureau, said that so far he has not heard of any list of "uninstructed" delegates, which would be permitted under the law. Each list carries the names of 150 delegates.

The delegates will be elected at large. Provision is made on the ballots for voting a straight wet or dry ticket. Dry leaders, including Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, state president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, have conceded that the wets will possibly elect their entire list, making the convention solidly for repeal.

INDUSTRY MOBILIZATION MEASURE IS PREPARED

Washington, May 3 (AP).—Mobilization of industry in an anti-depression drive through relaxation of the anti-trust laws so as to end ruinous competition and indiscriminate wage cutting is to be proposed to President Roosevelt.

A committee of congressional and industrial leaders, headed by Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.), was reported today to have virtually completed a plan designed to stimulate industry by permitting self-regulation under proper government supervision.

As industry's contribution to the war on stagnated business, James H. Rand, head of Remington-Rand Company, said he was ready to propose a supplementary plan under which the President could call for the re-employment of 3,000,000 men immediately.

The committee has been sifting scores of proposals for helping business in a series of secret meetings. The plan now nearing completion is to be placed before Mr. Roosevelt this week with the idea that it might be offered as a substitute for the thirty-hour-work-week legislation now pending in Congress.

TELEGRAM SENT BY ROOSEVELT TO HERRIOT

S. S. Ile De France, at sea, May 2 (AP).—Former Premier Herriot, returning to France, after his conferences in Washington with President Roosevelt, received the following telegram from the President Monday night:

"Mrs. Roosevelt and I send our warm regards and hope you are sailing on smooth seas which will be a harbinger of success on our great undertakings for security and commerce.

"It was a great delight to have you in Washington and we both wish you might have stayed longer.

"Please give my regards to all of the members of your staff, not forgetting the gentlemen of the press.

"F. D. ROOSEVELT."

TWO-YEAR-OLD GIRL BITTEN BY A DOG ON TUESDAY

Beatrice Coddington, 2 years old, of 45 Murray street, was badly bitten about the arm and body on Tuesday and was removed to the Kingston Hospital for treatment. According to the police report the little girl had wandered into the yard of Columbus Redmond at 47 Murray street, where three dogs were tied in the yard and had been bitten by one of the animals.

Park and Goldrick Named Ulster County Beer Board

Chairman Elsworth of Supervisors Selected Robert H. Park of New Paltz to Serve With Merton L. Goldrick Who Was Chosen by Chairman Mulrooney of State Beer Board as Local Commissioners—Selected Park From List of Six Submitted by County Medical Society.

George V. Elsworth, chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, today announced the appointment of Robert H. Park of New Paltz as the second member of the county beer board, Merton L. Goldrick of Goldrick's Landing having been named Tuesday by Chairman Edward P. Mulrooney of the State Alcohol Beverage Control Commission. The list of appointments in the various counties of the state was made Tuesday by Mr. Mulrooney.

The law provides that the state control commission must select one member of the county board and the chairman of the Board of Supervisors must name the second member of the board from a list submitted by the County Medical Society. The list of six names selected by the Ulster County Medical Society was sent to Mr. Elsworth several days ago. The law also requires that the board must be made up of one Republican and one Democrat.

Mr. Park, a member of the hardware firm of Park and Oates of New Paltz is active in American Legion matters and is one of the village's substantial business men.

Mr. Park's name was the first on the list which was submitted to Mr. Elsworth by the County Medical Society's committee. The following names were submitted on April 20 for consideration:

Robert H. Park, New Paltz; Alfred Schmid, of Kingston; Dr. Charles C. Zacharie, Marlboorugh; Berton Haver, Kingston; William E. Graham, Ellenville; William L. Douglas, Ellenville.

Mr. Elsworth today notified Mr. Park of his appointment and also notified Chairman Mulrooney of the selection of Mr. Park.

Mr. Goldrick, although never a public office holder, has been active in Democratic politics. He is associated with his father, Philip Goldrick, and his brother Thomas F. Goldrick, in the brick manufacturing business at Goldrick's Landing, and has been a resident of this section since 1906 when he came here from Haverstraw.

Among the other appointments by Chairman Mulrooney in this district are:

Columbia county, J. D. Allerdice of Hudson; Dealware county, Edward S. White, Walton; Dutchess county, Miss Elizabeth K. Lamont, Millbrook; Greene county, Harold W. Becker, Catskill; Orange county, Frank Patterson, Port Jervis; Schoharie county, George Oliver, Summit; Sullivan county, Ralph Washington, Monticello.

McKee Will Head Title Guarantee Co.

New York, May 3 (AP)—Joseph V. McKee, who succeeded James J. Walker for a brief period as mayor of New York and who was the chief hope of the anti-Tammany forces in the coming November election, renounced his political career today.

He accepted the presidency of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company.

A statement was issued at noon from the bank in behalf of McKee in which he emphasized "the complete elimination of myself from politics and governmental office."

He added that he felt his new position would give him his greatest opportunity for public service in view of the plight of the small home owner under existing economic conditions. The Title Guarantee and Trust specializes in insurance and mortgage loans.

In the statement, McKee, who was given a write-in vote of almost a quarter of a million at last fall's special mayoralty election in which John P. O'Brien, the Tammany candidate, was elected, reaffirmed his belief in the party system of government but added that leadership in politics under that system "is hemmed in by party limitations."

LITTLE HELEN VASCO TO RETURN HOME FRIDAY

New York, May 3 (AP).—Little Helen Vasco will go home Friday to a mother who now is convinced the operation which removed the child's left eye was "all for the best."

Mrs. John Vasco of Hastings-on-Hudson, who had opposed the operation so bitterly that a high court had to order it, visited the little girl at a hospital here.

Judge George W. Smythe of Westchester children's court, who originally ordered the operation, said the mother was happy and satisfied.

The operation was ordered because physicians said a malignant [illegible] behind the eye would soon [illegible] the brain and kill the girl.

Freida S. Miller Will Direct Fight to Raise Pay of Women-Minors

Miss Miller Will Act as Director of Minimum Wage Division of Labor Department — Will Handle Appeal of Workers.

Albany, N. Y., May 3 (AP).—Freida S. Miller, head of the labor department's division of women in industry, will direct New York state's fight to raise the bottom level of wages paid to women and minors in factories, it became known today.

Miss Miller will act as director of the new minimum wage division of the labor department, to be created under the Wald bill for minimum wages for women and minors in industry, which Governor Lehman signed Monday.

Lacking funds to take on extra hands to do the new job given to his department, Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews will assign her to handle the appeals of workers for hearings on their wage scales. Under the Wald bill, any 50 citizens of the state may bring about an investigation of the wages being paid women, defined as females over 21, and minors, which the bill describes as persons under 21.

As director of the division, Miss Miller will have almost unlimited power to go into any shop or factory, inspect its payrolls and other records, require statements from employers in writing and take other means to determine whether fair wages are being paid.

Wage boards will be appointed by the industrial commissioner if the minimum wage director believes that a further investigation is necessary. These boards will consist of three representatives of the employers, three of the employes and three disinterested parties, all serving without pay. They will be empowered to summon witnesses and compel employers to produce records.

After the wage boards arrive at an agreement on minimum wages for a particular line of work in a particular locality, Industrial Commissioner Andrews may either accept the wage scale the board proposes or re-submit the whole matter to the same board or a new one.

There is a provision in the bill which prevents employers from discriminating against any of his employes who may serve on a wage board. Another clause makes the state the legal champion of any person who has not been paid all the money due him or her under the minimum wage ruling in any action to recover the amount unpaid.

Mayor Carey Made Three Appointments

Mayor Eugene B. Carey filed with the common council Tuesday evening three appointments he made to city boards. The mayor appointed Bernard A. Feeney of 622 Delaware avenue to the education board for a term of five years, succeeding Floyd Powell, whose term had expired.

Dr. Frederick Holcomb of 188 Fair street was reappointed a member of the board of health for a three year term, and Dr. Fred H. Voss of 69 Spring street was appointed a member of the health board succeeding Mrs. Rose Hickey, whose term had expired.

Dr. Voss, who is a graduate of Ulster Academy, has been practicing medicine in Ulster county for 15 years. Following his graduation from the Long Island Medical College, he practiced in the town of Gardiner for four years. He then removed to this city, where he has since been practicing.

During his stay in Gardiner, Dr. Voss took a post graduate course in public health work in New York University. Dr. Voss has also made two trips to Europe, where he studied in the medical centers and clinics of Vienna and Berlin.

He is a member of the New York Academy of Medicine, a Fellow of the American College of Physicians and a member of the Ulster County Medical Society of which he has been the secretary for the past ten years.

Refunds Appropriated to Work Relief

After some further discussion the matter was referred to the bus committee.

Regrets to the Mayor

Alderman Long introduced a resolution that the council heard with regret of the continued critical illness of Mayor Carey and desired to convey to the mayor the feeling of respect and affection of the members of the council and hoped that Providence would spare the mayor for many years to come. As an evidence of its sincere regard and wishes for his permanent recovery a copy of the resolution was to be dispatched to the mayor in his sick room so as to encourage him in his battle against illness.

City Treasurer's Report

City Treasurer James H. Betts submitted a statement of the expenditure of the $100,000 bond issue authorized some time ago by the council to carry on work relief in the city. The emergency relief committee has expended of that sum the following amounts:

For labor	$54,688.52
Purchases	7,086.63
Reserve	5,000.00
	$66,775.15

Leaving a balance on hand May 1 of $33,224.85.

Since June of 1932 to January of this year the state had refunded the sum of $19,888.42, and anticipated refunds totaled the sum of $20,482.04.

Of the refunds received there was still on hand the sum of $16,251, and this amount was later turned over to the work relief by the council.

There have been no refunds yet received on the $100,000 bond issue.

Mrs. Burger's Complaint

Mrs. Catherine Burger of 611 Delaware avenue was extended the privilege of the floor at the request of Alderman Long. She said she was present asking relief. There was an old building next door to her home which was a menace and should be removed. She said as far as she knew it was the property of Nels Peterson. The building had had no roof on it for eight years and but three sides were standing and they were braced up by timbers.

Corporation Counsel Chris J. Flanagan said it was a private building on private land and that the matter should be thoroughly investigated before any action was ordered. He said there was no question but that the building was a disgrace and that Mrs. Burger was justified in making a complaint for he had never seen a more deplorable looking shack.

Alderman McGrane said he knew of the building and he wondered why the people of that neighborhood had not complained about it long ago. He believed that the fire board and board of health could do something about the matter.

Alderman Haines and Doheny agreed it was a disgrace to the city.

Corporation Counsel Flanagan suggested that a committee be appointed to investigate and report back.

Alderman Long and Schoonmaker were appointed as an investigating committee by President Heiselman.

Motions and Resolutions.

The following motions and resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper city boards:

Alderman Sullivan—That that portion of Delaware avenue in the Fifth ward be topdressed; that East Union street from Yeomans street to North street be topdressed; that Abruyn street from Grove street to Strand be repaired; that Tompkins, Gill, Sycamore and North streets be repaired; that water hydrant be placed at dump on Delaware avenue at head of Abruyn street.

Alderman Long—That Hasbrouck Park ball diamond be completed this week so that games could be played on it on Sunday; also why was it that the ordinance in regard to the parking of trucks in the streets was not enforced.

Alderman Doheny—That West Chestnut street from Montrepose avenue west of School No. 2 be given a light topdressing; that West Pierpont street and Montrepose avenue receive attention at once; that Mary's avenue from Andrew street to Benedictine Hospital be repaired; that city purchase about 20 feet of the Singer property at McEntee and West Pierpont streets for purpose of rounding the corner there.

Alderman Haines—That Bruyn avenue be repaired; also Ora Place be oiled and a "Stop" sign placed on Smith avenue at corner of Cornell street.

Alderman Neice—That board of public works topdress Prospect street.

Alderman Epstein—That catch basin front of Bush property on Newkirk avenue be repaired; that holes be patched in Newkirk avenue, East Pierpont street, Chambers street, Meadow street, East Union street, Ann street, Murray and Mill streets.

Alderman Schwenk — Resolved, that the board of public works fill in holes on Foxhall avenue between Grand street and Stephan street; fill in holes on Hasel street; repair Stephan street between Foxhall avenue and Clifton avenue; repair Farrelly street between Stephan street and Flatbush avenue; fill in holes on Emerick street; fill in holes on Gage street; fill in holes on Flatbush avenue between West Shore Railroad crossing and Clifton avenue; repair shoulders and fill in holes on Clifton avenue between Highland avenue and Flatbush avenue; fill in holes on Tubby street; fill in hole at foot of Van Gasbeck street; fill in holes on Hemlock avenue; repair shoulder and fill in holes on East Chester street, Broadway to Flatbush avenue; fill in holes on Grant street; fill in holes on Lincoln street between Clifton avenue and East Chester street; widen and repair Florence street; repair Shufeldt street between top of hill and Clifton avenue; fill in holes on Grand street between [illegible] street and Foxhall avenue; repair Hasbrouck avenue between Garden street and Grand street; fill in holes on Abbey street; repair Highland avenue and Park street.

Other matters taken up will be found elsewhere.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, May 2—Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Curtis were Kingston visitors on Saturday afternoon.

The Methodist Sunday school was in charge of the superintendent, Myron Vandermark, on Sunday, April 30. The morning and evening church services were in charge of the pastor, the Rev. Robert L. Mauterstock. Soloists for the morning were Vladimir T. Moody, tenor, and George Newton, bass. On Friday evening, April 28, there was a meeting of the Junior and Intermediate boys of the church in the recreation room. The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society was held on Tuesday, May 2.

The annual meeting of the Newburgh District Women's Foreign Missionary Society will be held in the Walden Methodist Episcopal Church on Thursday, May 4. The program begins at ten in the morning and continues for the day and evening. The young people's rally and banquet will be at 6:30. The principal address will be given by Miss Pearl Palmer of Aligarh, India.

There was no Epworth League service Sunday night, April 30, as the league was the guest of the Gardiner Christian Endeavor Society in the Gardiner Reformed Church. The service began with a hymn service, scripture reading and a circle of prayer followed. Miss Almira Wright was in charge of the devotionals and the Rev. Robert Richle discussed the topic, "Stories Jesus Told." Those from the Epworth League who attended were the Misses Henrietta Wicks, Gertrude Keller, Mary Yost, Lee Etta Brown, Blanche Gulnac, Myra Gerald, Grace Mae and Elizabeth Hasbrouck, Joyce and Frances Mauterstock, Elaine Kniffen, Margaret McCormick and William Hasbrouck, Gaylord Carey, Samuel Kevan, Albert Smith, Robert Mauterstock, Jr., and George Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hornbeck spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hughes in Catskill.

Miss Ruth Fitch was a visitor in Poughkeepsie on Saturday.

Miss Elizabeth Hasbrouck spent the week-end with the Misses Hilda and Freda Dolson in Gardiner.

Miss Kathryn Cumiskey of Marlborough spent Sunday with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, on South Chestnut street.

Bruyn DuBois and daughter, Miss Bessie DuBois, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. David T. Van Wagenen in Ohioville.

Paul Weemer sang a solo at the entertainment given by the Vineyard Rebekah Lodge in Highland Thursday evening.

Mrs. Ralph Johnston and daughter are confined to their home with measles.

Andrew Deyo was a business caller in Ardonia on Thursday.

George Clinton, of the Hudson Valley Store on lower Main street, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Clinton, in Modena.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Clearwater of High Falls attended the funeral of Mrs. Jacob Yeaple on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Maude Shaw of Poughkeepsie visited Mrs. Isaac Shaw and Miss Sue Shaw on South Chestnut street on Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Elliott; Mrs. Gertrude Coulter and Mrs. Bertram Cottine attended the meeting of the Obed Chapter of the Eastern Star in Poughkeepsie on Monday evening.

Miss Catherine Hornbeck entertained several of her friends at supper last Sunday night in honor of her birthday.

Irving C. Barnes presented ten maple trees to the Highland Grange. They have been planted on the grounds of the new Grange Hall on the New Paltz and Highland road.

Mrs. Henry Hornbeck was a visitor in Kingston on Saturday afternoon.

The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Study Club for the coming year: President, Mrs. Eugene Relyea; vice president, Mrs. Arthur Richards; recording secretary, Mrs. Martin Lee DuBois; corresponding secretary, Mrs. DeWitt Clinton Seward. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Edward McLaury on Huguenot street and the village improvement will have charge of the meeting.

Mark Sullivan was a guest of Frank Van Syckle at "Sunnyside" on Thursday, April 20.

On account of ill health Mrs. Catherine Schoonmaker has resigned her position as librarian of Elting Memorial Library, where she has served for a number of years. Mrs. Carrie Vail has been appointed to take Mrs. Schoonmaker's place. Mrs. Vail was librarian at Bisbee, Arizona, for 15 years before coming to make her home in New Paltz. Three teas have recently been given, one each by Mrs. Jay LeFevre, Mrs. Bertha Denniston and the girls' sororities of the Normal School. The proceeds of which helped swell the library fund. The annual gift of $50 of the Study Club has also been received.

The Rev. and Mrs. Robert Guice and family of Modena were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Brown and family on Grove street, Sunday, April 30.

The supper sponsored by the consistory of the Dutch Reformed Church on Thursday night was a great success, 500 tickets being sold. All enjoyed the supper and the fun of the evening.

The ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary with Mrs. Thomas Elliott, chairman, and Mrs. Raymond Miller, Mrs. Thomas Jensen and Mrs. Charles Parker, assistants, are working to buy a new flag for the Sullivan-Shaffer Post for Memorial Day.

A check of elevator travel to the observation tower of the courthouse at Miami, Fla., for one week showed 8,121 passengers.

"27,000 miles with no repairs?* Doesn't surprise me. These Terraplanes sure stand up."
"I've averaged 20½ miles to the gallon, too. Greatest money-saver I ever drove."

Talk to any Essex Terraplane owner . . .

The first thing he'll say is: "This is the most thrilling car I've ever driven. It runs away from everything else on the road like a scared rabbit from a pack of poodles."

The second thing he'll say is: "My Terraplane is the most economical car I've ever had—I've paid practically nothing for repairs. I get higher gas and oil mileage. Tires wear longer."

How do we know Terraplane owners say these things? Because they are saying them, under oath, in signed reports, and in letters, every day.

So, we say again: "Talk to any Terraplane owner"—then take a Terraplane ride!

News from the World on Wheels

"The influence of real spring weather on automobile sales has always been great, and 1933 is no exception to this 25-year rule", declares Rufus S. Cole, vice president of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation. "The week ending April 22 is the third consecutive week in which we can report substantial business gains. Notwithstanding the increases which each week for the past four weeks has shown over each previous week, the week which ended April 22 showed a 13 per cent increase in shipments over the week ended April 15. Comparing Hupmobile shipments and unfilled orders for the first 22 days of April against the corresponding period in March, I find an increase of 52 per cent. The most conclusive evidence of business improvement is given by the figures covering actual deliveries to buyers. Such actual deliveries for the four weeks ending April 22 compared with four weeks ended March 22, present an increase of 29 per cent. In fact, from the figures we have, with April reports still incomplete, deliveries in April will exceed those for any previous month since June, 1932."

The directors of General Motors Corporation at their meeting held May 1, declared on the outstanding common stock a quarterly dividend of 25c a share, payable June 12, 1933, to stockholders of record May 11, 1933. In addition the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share was declared on the $5 Preferred Stock, payable August 1, 1933, to stockholders of record July 10, 1933.

Poisons Easily Compounded

Many things can be changed from a harmless substance to a poison by merely changing the arrangement of the atoms therein.

Deposits of South Dakota banks at the end of 1932 amounted to $58,746,000 as compared with $93,247,000 the year before.

SMART FOR SPRING

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Mannish woolens are the swagger note for the spring suit. The material for the model pictured is reversible—checked on one side and a solid color on the other. Which makes this double-faced wool cape suit exceedingly practical as it offers many costume changes, simply by wearing first one side out then the other. One way of doing it is to wear it as here shown. Another is to turn the jacket and skirt checks out, topping this with the cape showing the monotone side, or let all three pieces show up the checks, or wear skirt and cape with checked side out, the jacket contrasting the plain color. There are any other number of combinations possible. For milder days the jacket might be discarded, for the cape will pose very effectively over a dainty blouse. The suit itself without the cape makes a modish appearance. The vagabond hat is considered extremely voguish.

HAIR STAYS SHORT, NEW HATS REVEAL

Head glory will remain short in the glorious springtime if early spring hats tell anything about the question of lovely locks. They are made to reveal perfectly waved side hair and leave no room for any chignon in the small crown or back.

"Double-up" is the very newest coiffure being featured by the smartest hairdressers. It is the continuation of the popular brushed-away-from-the-forehead style. The hair is whisked directly back into a swirl and finds its way back again around the ears, or only one of them, terminating there in any one of the many curl fashions.

"Double-up" really gets its name from the fact that it is as smart for the morning as well as the evening—a coiffure for the mondaine as well as for the sportswoman.

Cottons and Linens to Have Big Summer Vogue

All the signs, according to couture activities, point to another big summer for cottons and linens. At present both cottons and linens that are being shown are puzzling fashion people, because they so often look like woolens.

The natural line-color suits worn with darker blouses are a smart expression of this mode.

Other details that are registering are the narrower daytime skirts and waistlines that are slightly lowered.

Necklines are still showing high tendencies, but an open, square cut is used in a couple of daytime dresses and jackets.

CAISSONS USED IN EGYPT IN 1900 B. C.

Expedition Finds Pyramid Builders Employed Them.

New York.—The presence of a master mind among the engineers who built the pyramids at Lisht, near Cairo, with evidence of his ingenuity in the use of the caisson to sink the shafts for the burial of noble dead, has been revealed by the Egyptian expedition of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, through excavations last year in the Nile valley. According to Ambrose Lansing, head of the expedition, the application of the caisson principle by the Egyptian tomb builders thirty-nine centuries ago is the earliest yet discovered.

Two separate caissons, remotest types known of the device which has made possible many of the huge erections of the present day, were uncovered by the expedition. One, a stone and brick affair, remained almost perfectly intact; the other, made of wood, could be identified only by traces of its rotted beams. The appliances were among the most striking of several interesting discoveries which were made relating to the methods of pyramid building in Egypt and to the life of the time, according to the museum report.

Findings Made Near Cairo.

The finds were made at the site of the pyramid of Se'n-Worset I, at Lisht, forty miles south of Cairo, where the museum expedition resumed operations a year ago after an absence of six years at Thebes. Se'n-Worset, the second king of the early Twelfth dynasty, personally directed the building of the tomb and it was during the search for the burial places of the ladies of the royal family that the archeologists found the caisson pits.

Work was begun in the outer court at the west side of the huge mound. "Although we failed at first to find any pits," writes Mr. Lansing, "it is fortunate that we did not give up clearing this part of the court. Had we done so we might have missed what was, from an archeological point of view at least, the most interesting discovery of the season." Describing the method used by some ancient Egyptian genius in penetrating beyond a treacherous substratum of loose sand, which had handicapped the digging of the tombs, Mr. Lansing says:

"They cut through the hard upper stratum to the sand level, making the cutting sufficiently large to allow for a brick lining to the pit. A block of limestone was then cut to the same dimensions as the pit. This was hollowed out to the size of the intended shaft and then lowered into the pit until it rested on the sand. On the rim of the caisson was built a brick wall. When this wall had been constructed to the level of the ground the digging of the pit was recommenced. As each basketful of sand was removed, the stone caisson, and with it the brick wall which rested on it, settled slightly. Gradually the stone sank through the sand, and as it sank courses of brickwork were added to the wall above."

Work Described in Inscription.

Discovery of inscriptions on huge stones used for the sub-casing of the giant pyramid brought forth other notable facts which enabled the archeologists to piece together a vivid picture of the manner in which the stone was brought from the quarries at Tura, on the opposite bank of the Nile some twenty miles distant from Lisht, and deposited at the foot of the pyramid under construction.

The transportation of these heavy stones, says Mr. Lansing, was chiefly a matter of man power. The problem was to keep the masons supplied with material to prevent any interruption of their labors. This was accomplished by taking advantage of the flooding of the Nile, which reduced the distance the blocks of stone had to be dragged. Mr. Lansing gives a picture of the assembling of the stones on the east bank for the arrival of the flood, followed by a massed concentration on the task of loading the barges, towing them to Lisht and unloading them there.

Miner Is Rescued After Being Trapped 5 Days

Mount Carmel, Pa.—John Cheslock, Jr., twenty-seven-year-old miner, was removed from an old mine hole after he had been trapped for five days far below the earth's surface.

Rescue workers sank a 75-foot shaft in order to reach the entombed man, who was suffering from cold and hunger.

The workers heard his voice for the first time when their shaft had reached a depth of 55 feet. He told them that his left leg was pinioned by a huge boulder and that the leg was badly crushed.

It was necessary to dig another 20 feet before he could be removed and the rescuers worked at top speed during the last few hours.

Carey Slightly Improved.

The condition of Mayor Eugene B. Carey was reported as slightly improved at the Benedictine Hospital this afternoon.

Growing Opium Poppies

The successful cultivation of opium poppies is possible only where there is not an excessive rainfall and where the climate is tropical or subtropical. Also, the industry can be successfully carried on only where labor and land are sufficiently cheap and abundant. The cultivation of poppies for the production of opium is therefore not possible in this country and it would undoubtedly not be allowed even if it were feasible.

INSPIRED FINANCE.

We've been doing a little figuring about that $200,000,000,000 which, according to a speech by one of the senators, is going to be turned over from creditors to debtors by the new inflation bill. And the more we figure, the more puzzled we are about the process. But finally we begin to see light.

A statistician who has been figuring on our national debt problem concludes that taking all public and private obligations together, our debits and credits are equal. The country owes about $263,000,000,000, and its assets are worth the same amount. In short, we owe ourselves $269,000,000,000.

This fact in itself looks appalling from one angle. Collectively we're worth nothing. Not one unsecured silver certificate. Not a red cent. The nation's flat busted. But shifting our position a little and looking at it from another angle, by jiminy, we're all right! We owe each other. We're nearly all both debtors and creditors. We owe the money to ourselves. If we just pay ourselves, by paying each other, the debt is all wiped out and we still have the whole $269,000,000,000. Isn't finance grand?

Now to get back to senatorial finance. Remembering that individually, corporately and nationally we're both debtors and creditors, we just shift that $200,000,000,000, in suitable sums, from our right hands to our left hands, and that's that. The other $69,000,000,000 can wait a bit.

SELFISH PLANS

By means of an imaginary conversation, the New York Sun sets forth strikingly the selfishness which is one factor helping to keep this country and the whole world in economic distress. There are three speakers, a farmer, a merchant and a manufacturer. All of them want inflation, but with differences.

The farmer wants only such inflation as will raise crop prices. Clothing and farm machinery he wants to buy cheap. The merchant wants inflation which will raise the prices of the goods he sells, but he wants rent and other items of overhead to stay low. The manufacturer wants inflation to raise the price of his finished goods, while keeping the cost of labor and raw materials down. The moral is so obvious that it need not be stressed.

On a broader scale, the nations have been acting upon similar ideas. Each of them wants to enlarge its export market but cannot bear the thought of any other nation doing the same thing. Yet it is just as true that eventually those who will not buy will not be able to sell as the other way around, and those who can't sell can't buy. Any real solution of any individual problem must be part of the bigger solution of the whole problem. We fall or rise together.

THE NEXT WAR

One of the best things said by the eloquent Prime Minister MacDonald on his recent visit was that "whoever invented the expression, 'a war to end war,' was a fool," because "the one certain thing about war is that every war makes another equally certain." "In all peace treaties that are imposed upon the vanquished," he continued, "there is a secret clause. Statesmen may say there is not. There is, although the statesmen have never seen it. The secret clause is the date of the next war!"

The statement makes millions sit up and think. The principle may be seen running through European history. Look at the see-saw of Franco-German wars. Many wars may be implicit in the Versailles treaty, which closed the "war to end war," unless it is corrected quickly. Where and when will the next war be? We needn't say "that is none of our business, because we won't be in it." It's everybody's business.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

IMPORTANCE OF FIRST TEETH.

One of the mistakes parents and teachers have been making is in thinking that nothing need be done about children's teeth until what is called the sixth year molar tooth arrives, and then the child should "go to the dentist."

Dr. Irene G. Woodcock, prominent New York city dentist, reminds the medical and dental profession that waiting until the child arrives at this age before caring for the teeth is a big mistake.

In the first or milk set of teeth, with their pulps (nerves and blood-vessels) so near the surface, decay soon means infection in the pulps, with all the ailments which so easily follow.

What are the ailments which follow tooth decay even in youngsters?

The New York Society for the Prevention of Heart Disease has placed the responsibility for heart disease about equally between contagious diseases (scarlet fever, measles, diphtheria, and other diseases of childhood) and that what is called "focal" infection, that is infection beginning in one place—teeth, tonsils, gall bladder, intestine—and carried by the blood to other parts including of course the heart.

What does this mean?

It means that if one half of all heart disease comes from bad teeth, tonsils, gall bladder and intestine with most of the one half from the teeth and tonsils, then parents should take their children to the dentist at as early an age as two years instead of waiting until the child is six or more.

Just as there is an organization for the prevention of tuberculosis in children with institutions where children from the homes in which tuberculosis exists or has existed, may be cared for, so should there be a campaign of prevention of heart disease in young children, which aims at preserving the first or milk set of teeth. This can be done by means of diet, careful cleansing of the teeth, artificial sunlight and other means.

Dr. Woodcock points out that if this first set of teeth is properly cared for, many of the ills that come with the second or permanent set of teeth would be abolished.

Further, if the first set is preserved there will be room for the second set when they come which means much not only to the child's health but to its appearance also.

HOMESPUN YARN

Day-old bread is often cheaper than fresh bread, and is equally nourishing.

A gallon of surplus milk will make one-third of a pound of butter and one and one-half pounds of cottage cheese.

One pound of greens or cabbage gives about four servings; one pound of other vegetables yields two servings.

All babies need sunshine or its equivalent, codliver oil, every day of the year. In the spring, the hours between ten in the morning and two in the afternoon give the best sun rays.

Children's clothes should be loose and comfortable. Underwear should have roomy armholes, generous seats, and wide crotches. Stocking feet and shoes should be one inch longer than the child's foot.

When food money is low, special care must be taken to buy foods which protect health. That means, first of all, milk and whole grain cereals and breads; next, potatoes and a little fat to eat with them; and then, as money permits, buy tomatoes or oranges, a vegetable in addition to potatoes, a second fruit, codliver oil, eggs, a little meat, more fat, and a little sugar or molasses. A bulletin, Low Cost Food For Health, sent on request from the state college of home economics at Ithaca, New York, helps you to plan wholesome meals with little money.

Invented Pari-Mutuel Plan

A Frenchman named Oller invented the pari-mutuel system of betting on horse races in about 1872. In 1880 a man in New Zealand named Ekberg, who had studied Oller's procedure, conceived the idea of automatically recording bets. He devised a machine for the purpose, called it a totalizer, and used it for the first time at the Canterbury Jockey club's meeting at Christchurch, New Zealand, in 1880. It was not until 1908 that the pari-mutuel system of betting was methodically exploited in the United States, and in the spring of that year it was adopted in Kentucky.

The White Cockatoo

by Mignon G. Eberhart

SYNOPSIS: Two murders have been committed and two attempts have been made on Jim Sundene's life, the last of which wounded him painfully. All are connected, Sundene and the detective David Lorn believe, with an attempt to steal the token by means of which Sue Tally, their fellow guest at a little French hotel, must claim her half of her father's vast fortune. Sundene, although suspected of the murders by the French police, is chiefly concerned about the safety of Sue Tally. He is awakened in the middle of the night and smells tobacco smoke nearby.

Chapter 27

WHENCE THE SMOKE?

It was very cold, and the glow from the red ashes still lighted the room sufficiently for me to see that there was no one about and the table before the door was undisturbed.

My shoulder throbbed as I pulled a dressing gown around me and went to the window. One casement was already a little open, and I pulled it wider and opened the shutters and looked down into the street.

There was no one about, and I closed the shutters and, partially, the window again.

There was the courtyard.

Cautiously I moved the table away and opened the door.

No one was in the long, half-dark corridor. Across the shadow, court the window and glass-paned door of the lobby made bright rectangles of light, and I could see two policemen; they sat at a small table directly under the light and were placidly playing some kind of card game.

The men were not smoking, although, if they had been, the odor would never have reached my room.

But behind me the whole north wing was deserted and silent. I walked carefully along its length. I even opened, very cautiously, a door or two near my own room. But the rooms were black cavities, and the air that rushed to meet me was cold and stale and had that peculiarly musty, dank smell of rooms that are very old and have been empty for a long time.

Moreover, the smell of tobacco smoke was much fainter here—was indeed so faint that I was not sure it was there at all. It was only when I returned to my room that it was definite and strong again. I closed the door, puzzled, and snapped on the light.

It puzzled me so much that I examined the room and adjoining bathroom. There was no one there, of course, and no evidence that anyone had been there. I even looked for hidden entrances to my room, feeling a little silly and melodramatic about it, but thinking still that there might be some such thing in that old place, built in the days when secret doors were the most matter-of-fact of arrangements.

But there was nothing; indeed, there was no place for anything except behind the enormous wardrobe, and if I moved that I should rouse the whole hotel in the process, for it was very heavy and large.

However, I did drift into uneasy dreams again, and by morning the odor of tobacco smoke—a silly and trivial thing at its clearest—had merged into those dreams and no longer seemed important, although I told Lorn about it when I saw him.

That was when we met in the lounge after breakfast.

MARIANNE, red-eyed and dark and somehow sullen, had brought in the breakfast tray and bounced out again. All her giggles were gone, poor child. I wondered what little Marcel had been to her.

Lorn listened politely, but without much interest, to my story of the tobacco smoke—which did, in fact, sound extremely trivial and fanciful by the light of day—said in a listless way that it was probably a policeman somewhere, but that he would try to make sure; asked how my shoulder was and said he was off to try to discover what the police were doing.

The matter of Father Robart's alibi would, I thought, await more important investigations, though I felt that the sooner we came to a conclusion about the information little Marcel had given me the better.

I followed Lorn through the small lobby and into the court. No one was in the lobby, but Father Robart was sitting outside in the court; he was smoking and hastily put up a newspaper as he saw me and began to read assiduously.

Pucci was sitting disconsolately on a chair back near the priest, and I took another chair. It was rather disconcerting to see a policeman's head and blue cap pop out from around the wall by the entrance arch, survey me unwinkingly and leisurely and then pop back again in a way that left no doubt in the world that I had actually the choicest of company.

Suspiciously I sniffed at the tobacco the priest was smoking, could no trace in it the fragrance of the tobacco smoke that had inexplicably drifted into my room during the night and fell to speculating regarding that enigmatical figure. Why had he taken so much trouble about an alibi?

The fact that he had so carefully arranged a needless alibi was in itself suspicious. Highly suspicious, I told myself, looking at his long black legs and American shoes. He'd explained the shoes when he'd said casually that he'd spent two years in America.

But it suddenly struck me that his beard itself was a suspicious point. As a rule, only missionary priests or Russian priests wear beards, and he had the appearance of being neither. And yet, if assumed for purposes of disguise, it would have entailed a long and patient process, for it was a real beard.

He had not only taken pains to arrange a false alibi, but he had lied himself, and—which was still less what one might expect in a man of God—he had practically forced little Marcel to lie in order to support his story.

Pucci croaked, scratched and fluttered clumsily down from the chair. The bird had been in the lounge with me just before Marcel had entered it the previous afternoon. I wondered what he had seen. I wished there were some way to wrest from him the knowledge that might be back of those bright, shoe-button eyes—eyes that looked as knowing and secretive as his mistress' eyes.

THIS time Pucci croaked as disconsolately as he had scratched, sidled over to the priest and pulled himself up on his knee, whence he scrutinized the beard closely.

There was suddenly an impatient rustle of the newspaper, and behind it the priest's red beard and angry eyes appeared. I did not realize that I must have been looking, as I felt, faintly amused at the cockatoo's cynical expression until Father Robart snapped:

"Well, have you stared at me enough? And is it so amusing an occupation?"

"As a matter of fact, I was watching the cockatoo," I said, "and thinking of what Marcel told me."

I was looking directly into his eyes, and it was with interest that I noted the singular way they became fixed and rigid like a cat's. His face, too, looked suddenly rather yellow back of that flaming thin beard. Presently he said, his yellow-gray eyes never wavering in that rigid secret stare into mine:

"Marcel? And what was that, since you've introduced the subject?"

I hesitated, resolved in a fraction of a second that I was doing no harm, and replied:

"He told me the truth about the story you gave the police concerning your whereabouts the night the unknown man was murdered. He said you were not ill and that he was not in your room with you."

It occurred to me that he had braced himself for it; had perhaps known what was coming. He said coldly:

"Well?"

I shrugged, and promptly resolved not to indulge in that gesture again until my shoulder had healed.

"Well?" I said, with his own inflection. His eyes remained still, and yet it seemed to me there was an angry flash back of them. Clearly he resented the implication that it was not my place to speak.

He remained stubbornly silent for a moment, but he was not of the temperament to keep his feelings in leash for long. Fully conscious of the seething rage back of those still yellow eyes, I took out my cigarettes, in a leisurely fashion I leaned forward, extended the package toward him, and said pleasantly: "Do have a cigarette."

He made an angry motion with his hands and sprang to his feet.

"Oh, you are insulting!" Father Robart cried. "You are insulting!"

"Oh, come now," I said mildly. "It is scarcely an insult to offer a man a cigarette. Hey—don't step on the bird!"

Father Robart makes a curious statement, tomorrow.

AGRIGRAPHS

Uncle Ab says that if the first furrow is straight we need not worry so much about the rest.

Before planting a new crop this season, first learn if the crop pays in the districts where it is best adapted.

About $200,000 worth of red fox pelts are taken each year in New York state. The fox considers the meadow mouse a delicacy.

The main advantage in cutting seed potatoes is to make the seed go farther. Cutting also stimulates sprout growth from eyes which otherwise might remain dormant.

4-H forestry club members plan to plant 1,354,000 trees in New York state this spring. Nearly 155,000 trees were bought outright by the farm boys and girls in 1932.

The University of Wisconsin found that the greatest profit from feeding milk to calves was from calves fed to weigh up to about 145 pounds. Growing such calves keeps both milk and poor quality, immature veal off the market.

A farm garden saves money and is a convenience to the farm family. The free Cornell bulletin about the family garden is the lone surviving bulletin from the pen of the late Bob Adams, and is considered one of the most interesting college bulletins. It may be used as an all-season garden text. Ask the office of publication of the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y. for E-74.

To write a good book for the joy of writing it alone, not to write a book for others to read, is the aim of the idealist-author of Siam. The finished manuscript in many cases is buried—the author having completed his work in the writing. Regal burial places, such as the one shown in the above drawing, are provided for the burial of such works. The building, a veritable mausoleum of literature, houses works that will never be read—works that might, if released for the world to read, be deathless masterpieces. Who can say?

The author is not concerned with whether his work is read, or acclaimed—his joy lay in the writing, not in having others read and praise his manuscript.

Professor Auguste Piccard won world-wide renown as an aviator without ever getting into an airplane. When he set the record for altitude he had never ridden in a heavier-than-air craft. Even after his balloon trip, when he took his first heavier-than-air ride it was not in an airplane—it was in an autogiro. An autogiro, by definition, is not an airplane.

Stained fingers may be a good sign of cigarette smoking, but stained fingers are not any sign at all that nicotine caused the stain. In fact the stain on a smoker's hands is caused by a tarlike coloring substance found naturally in the tobacco plant.

Tomorrow: Postage-stamp walking sticks.

SHOKAN

Shokan, May 2.—Harold Elliott of the town of Marbletown has rented the bungalow near the Baptist Church belonging to Loren P. Secor of Kingston. Mr. Elliott is an employe of the Department of Water Supply. This is the second new family to locate in Shokan within a month.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hartvig of New York city are rusticating for a few days at their attractive summer home on the north boulevard. Mr. Hartvig while in the country is dividing his time between fishing trips and doing landscaping work on the grounds of his place, formerly known as the Will Longyear property.

Peter Crawford, enterprising Olive Bridge garage proprietor, was a business caller in the village Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vanderbent of Mt. Vernon motored to Shokan and spent Sunday with relatives here.

Mrs. Catherine Kenny of Pittsfield, Mass., is spending some time at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Earl Elmendorf, and family. Mrs. Kenny came here with the Elmendorfs on their return from a trip to Pittsfield.

John J. Every, well known Saugerties candy man, was a business caller in the village Monday.

The friends here of George Rieker, star route mail carrier between Kingston and Margaretville, regret that Mr. Rieker will not continue on the route, a Windham man having secured the new contract to make the run down the Esopus Valley.

Among those getting new homes ready for occupancy in the rapidly growing village of Ashokan about the first of May, 1913, were the following: Dr. J. W. Dumond, James K. DuBois, Abner D. Winne, Jervis Bell and Mrs. Emily Winans. Sidney K. Clapp, Board of Water Supply engineer, also was moving to Ashokan, where the new waterworks office was about to be located. Henry Boice was moving from his farm on the dugway road to Phoenicia where he had purchased the Myers house. Irwin P. Winne, John Schmidt, Mrs. Krom and John North had moved to Kingston, and John D. Van Kleeck was preparing to locate at Kerhonkson, where he had acquired valuable property along the state road.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church will hold its May meeting on Wednesday next, at the home in Shokan of Mrs. Fred Adsit.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Elmendorf of the village center quietly celebrated the 55th anniversary of their marriage on Monday, May 1. Mrs. Elmendorf's maiden name was Sarah Coons, and her marriage to Mr. Elmendorf took place at the home of the bride's father, Jeremiah Coons, who resided on what is what is now the John Kirn farm on the mountain road. The Elmendorfs have spent their entire married life within half a mile of their present home near the corner, their earlier residence having been on the old road to Olive, a short distance east of the present village of Shokan. Mr. and Mrs. Elmendorf, who are 77 and 75 years old, respectively, have three children, Earl and Burr of Shokan, and Mrs. John Arnold of Guilderland.

Paul James and George Hogan motored to the other side of the west basin last Sunday and took a walk down to the old Brodhead farm, where Mr. James spent many of his boyhood days. The water of the reservoir, of course, has covered the site of the Brodhead and James houses, but the explorers were able to locate several of the upper fields, now a part of the city's marginal strip and largely given over to evergreen plantings.

Isaiah Shultis of Glenford was a caller on Monday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Margaret Thiel.

Allen Terwilliger is making a good job redecorating the exterior of the Wallerstein summer home near the corner. Mr. Terwilliger is a former Shokan boy who for the past several years has made his home in Tabasco.

William Bell of Newburgh was numbered among the out of town business men in Shokan on Monday.

An illustrated lecture on the history of the Reformed Church will be given in the auditorium of the Shokan Church on Thursday evening, May 4, by the Rev. August Pfaus. Other lectures of a similar nature will perhaps be given by the pastor at some time in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Secor of Kingston paid a visit to their summer home in the village on Monday.

A Shokan wedding of May 2, 1866, was that of Chauncey Keater of Kingston to Josephine Winne of Shandaken, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Shokan M. E. Church. Attendants at the wedding were I. V. Reynolds and Fannie Orval.

St. Claire Barnes, well known carpenter and sportsman of the west side of the reservoir, was a business caller in the village last Saturday. Mr. Barnes has been unable to work for a long time on account of a partially disabled arm.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moran and daughter, Barbara, who have been spending a few days at the home of Mrs. Moran's father, Francis Hughes, and sister, Mrs. S. Nadal, returned to New York city last Sunday.

SHANDAKEN.

Shandaken, May 2.—Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Highton of Spofford, N. H., have returned to the Rip Van Winkle Club for the season as golf instructor and manager of the Club Inn. Mr. and Mrs. Otto Poehland, who have been living at the club during the winter months, have moved to their home on the Bushnellville road.

Leonard Ford is having an addition built to his house and is having it repainted. Ralph Yerry and Mat Redmond are the carpenters and Theron Townsend is doing the painting.

Mrs. A. P. Loomis of Phoenicia called on Mrs. Fred Osterhoudt on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hageman, who have been spending the winter at the Stuyvesant Hotel in Kingston, have returned to their summer home here.

The turkey dinner given by the Ladies' Aid of the M. E. Church on Thursday last was a decided success, both socially and financially. The tables were beautifully decorated with cut flowers through the kindness of Burgevin, florist, of Kingston. A net profit of $34 was realized.

F. S. Osterhoudt has filled in his driveway with crushed stone which he purchased of the new firm, Ford and Hinkel, who have erected a crusher on the Peck Hollow road and are now ready to serve the public.

Burr Knight and Theron Townsend made a business trip to Maryland, N. Y., on Saturday last.

Mrs. Martha Rider, who has been in Delhi during the winter, is spending some time here with her son, Abram Rider.

Abram Wood, who has been ill with dyspepsia, is recovering.

The Fire Chief

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

The Ducks of the Fire Department were now attaching the hose to Willy Nilly's pump and were pouring water in through the windows. The younger Ducks were upstairs, their wings fluttering nervously.

"Jelly Bear and Honey Bear have gone to sleep again," little Quacky Duck called out of the window to Fire Chief Quacko down below. "We've jumped on their backs but they won't budge."

"Peck them with your beaks!" shouted Fire Chief Quacko.

Quacky and the others began pecking at the Bears. "Wake up," they quacked. "The house is on fire." The Bears sleepily opened their eyes, and then moved over and looked out of the window.

"That ladder wouldn't hold us," Jelly Bear said.

"It will hold one of you at a time," said Quacky. "You try it."

"O. K.," said Jelly Bear. "If it holds me then Honey Bear can use it, and if not I can catch her in my good strong arms."

So Jelly Bear started down the ladder in his heavy, clumsy fashion.

"Dear Duck me," said Mr. Quacko, the Fire Chief, "I fear it won't hold him. I never realized Jelly Bear was so very heavy."

Jelly Bear had only gone down three rungs when the ladder gave a groaning sound and suddenly split.

Down fell Jelly Bear, and the ladder toppled over him. "Are you hurt, Jelly Bear, my dear?" called Honey Bear nervously from the window above.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press

El Segundo, Calif., May 3 (AP)—The proudest father in these parts is Wesley E. Morgan, 70 year old real estate man, whose two babies have been judged the first and second best in El Segundo's "perfect baby contest."

Herman, seven months old, took first place and Wesley, Junior, 2, captured the second prize.

"It would have been a dead heat," Morgan boasted, "But Wesley had a cold and wasn't at his best."

Morgan and his wife, who is 38, were married at Aberdeen, Miss., in 1929.

Just a Quiet Smoke

Albany, N. Y.—Benjamin Balenti sometimes has trouble with his automobile carburetor. When he made a shopping trip downtown, it started smoking.

Someone turned in a fire alarm, four engine companies, two hook and ladders, two battalion chiefs, the insurance patrol, a rescue squad, a water tower and the fire chief's red automobile rushed upon the scene.

But the carburetor had stopped smoking.

Too Much Is Plenty

Beckley, W. Va.—Chief of Police Sterne, enforcing one-hour parking regulations in the business district, hung a ticket on the car of an out-of-towner parked near a dental office. The out-of-towner mailed back the tag, writing on it:

"I was having a tooth pulled. Isn't that bad enough?"

Dollars and Scents

New York—The deodorizing business is much better, thank you.

Racketeers have taken to liberal use of stench bombs against restaurants, shops and factories which refuse tribute to gangs.

The ill wind blows good for the deodorizing companies, who are called in to make things smell sweet again.

He Likes Animals

Chicago—If and when he retires from the stage, George Arliss, monocled actor, is ambitious to head the National Anti-Vivisection Society. He said so when he paused in Chicago enroute from the west coast on a trip to England.

Add Screen Tests.

Hollywood, Calif.—By the route of bruises, bumps and cuts, a number of the would-be cyclists of the film colony are learning that to ride a bicycle, one first must be able to stay on it.

The bicycling fad to date numbers among its victims Constance Bennett with bruised legs, Mary Duncan with a black and blue arm, and Janet Gaynor with a damaged knee. Jean Harlow ran into a parked automobile at night but escaped injury.

Shearer Wanted.

Philadelphia—There's at least one job open in Philadelphia. The Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is looking for some one to shear a sheep. The animal, a pet of Mrs. James McPhail's children, still had its wooly winter coat at a temperature of 80.

Who Breaks 'em In?

Paris—When Edouard Herriot, like Old King Cole, calls for his pipe he gets his choice of 600.

Pipes are sent to the former premier from everywhere. He himself frequently makes gifts of them. Norman Davis, American ambassador-at-large, possesses a pair of Herriot pipes.

Herriot's chauffeur always keeps at least one in the car for the master, whose customary remark after settling himself for a drive is: "Henri! I would like to smoke a pipe!"

A Heart Message.

Chicago—Leroy Millinder, negro, apparently is well on the road to recovery despite an inch and a quarter knife wound in his heart received when he resisted a holdup.

Ten stitches were taken in his heart by Dr. George L. Davenport, who said that twice during the delicate operation the heart beats stopped but were restored by massaging.

Farm Relief.

Chicago—Mrs. Margaret Colclasure would like some farm relief. Through her attorney she filed a divorce bill against Colclasure, an agriculturist of Kempton, Ill., requesting alimony in the form of spinach, sweet potatoes and other farm produce. Desertion was the ground on which she based her plea for divorce.

Dogs Get Big Job.

Chicago—Prince and Teggy, police dogs, have been assigned to a big job. They help guard the Chicago Art Institute, supplementing armed guards, burglar alarms and other devices to prevent theft. During the World's Fair their job will be particularly important because some $15,000,000 worth of art will be added to that already on display.

They're Crazy Over Him.

Newark, N. J.—Helwyn Drake may have set 200 ladies' hearts a-twitter but not Girl Friend No. 201. Peggy Pauline Wiszkowski had him into court on a charge of defrauding her of $1,840. His lawyer said that was no fraud, that was a gift. "Why," he said, "two hundred other women are crazy about him."

As only three members of Custer Post, No. 9, G. A. R., of McMinnville, Ore., are still alive it has been disbanded.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, May 3.—Frank Joseph of New York city spent the past week-end with his mother, Mrs. Katheryn Joseph.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Harris and children spent Sunday with relatives in Port Ewen.

Mr. and Mrs. Festus Yeaple attended the funeral of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Jacob Yeaple, of New Paltz, on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Gwen Church spent Sunday afternoon and evening with her aunt, Miss Mary C. Van Wagenen.

Mrs. Mary Pine took dinner with Mrs. Preston Church on Saturday and in the afternoon visited her daughter, Mrs. Eli Depuy.

Mrs. Mary Beach recently purchased some very pretty porch chairs and a glider.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Oscar Church on Thursday afternoon of this week at 2 o'clock. It is hoped that there will be a good attendance.

The Ladies' Aid met in the basement of the Reformed Church the past Thursday to complete the quilt which was given the society by Mrs. Elsie Wager. A very nice dinner was served for a very small sum and outside guests were invited. A few took advantage of the opportunity to enjoy a good dinner and spend a social time. They cleared $8.22 after expenses were deducted. This was considered very good, as nothing was solicited for the dinner, everything being bought. The quilt was finished and all who attended reported a fine time.

The Ladies' Missionary Society held its April meeting at the home of Miss Jessie Snyder the past Thursday afternoon. The five present considered it a most profitable hour spent together, learning of the work among the Italians in America.

At the last Reformed Sunday School session the officers of the previous year were re-elected. Mr. Post of the senior class of New Brunswick Seminary, who had charge of the morning service, delivered an excellent sermon. Sunday, May 7, the members of the Sunday school are all requested to attend church as it is anniversary Sunday. As far as can be learned the Sunday school has been held regularly since the first Sunday in May, 1867. It is expected that every former member of the school will be glad to attend and listen to the annual report of the secretary and treasurer. All parents are urged to come.

The Young People's Society of Alligerville and High Falls gave a play entitled "The Colonel's Daughter" in the basement of the Reformed Church on Friday evening. There was a large audience present. Every part was exceptionally well taken, but all the younger members of the audience agree that the little Chinaman should have most special mention. They cleared over $25.

The friends of Miss Kate Clearwater were very glad to welcome her to the church service on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eagan of Weehawken, N. J., called on her cousins, Mrs. J. M. Barnhart and Miss Jessie Snyder, on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Eagan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hasbrouck, were both born in High Falls and were active in church and town work here. Mr. Hasbrouck will be remembered by the older people for his singing, as he possessed a remarkably rich, deep bass voice.

Mrs. Roney Krom, Mrs. Rancus Smith, Mrs. Raymond Lawrence, and Mrs. Phoebe Lawrence of Accord spent the day and evening Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. George Grant and mother, Mrs. D. Yeaple.

Mrs. Anna Van Etten of Kingston, who was formerly Miss Anna Sepesy, a sister of Paul Sepesy, is in St. Luke's Hospital, New York city, where she underwent an operation for goitre.

George Grant is painting the house of Maurice Davenport.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sepesy and family of Kingston and Mr. and Mrs. William Van DeMark of Walden, called on Paul Sepesy Sunday.

There was a fire on the Bruceville Commons Saturday evening, which created quite an excitement, but was extinguished by the fire department before doing any damage.

MINISTERS ASKED TO AID MEETING MAY 11

The Kingston Ministers' Association held its regular monthly meeting last Friday at noon at the Temple Emanuel. Lunch was served by the ladies of the temple. Due to the absence of the president, the Rev. Robert L. Ross, the Rev. Dr. Lucas Boeve, vice-president, presided. The speaker of the meeting was A. D. Batchelor, superintendent of the Metropolitan District of the Anti-Saloon League.

Mr. Batchelor asked for the cooperation of the association in the promotion of a meeting to be held at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church Thursday afternoon, May 11. Sergeant Alvin C. York of World War fame will be the speaker. The members of the association were glad of the opportunity to present this famous character to the people of Kingston and therefore decided to cooperate and as far as possible to promote attendance. The committee appointed to act in the interest of the association is the Rev. C. B. Smith, the Rev. James Armstrong and the Rev. Arthur S. Cole.

Sergeant York has been speaking at these meetings in many places and has been drawing large crowds. It is expected that the Kingston meeting will be no exception.

NOTICE OF CHANGE IN RATE SCHEDULE

Service Classification No. 2, applicable to commercial and industrial gas service in City of Kingston and adjacent rural territory has been reduced effective May 1, 1933, so that the Commodity Charge is 9.5c net, 9.95c gross, per 100 cu. ft. for first 100,000 cu. ft. of gas per month and 6c net, 6.15c gross, for additional usage. The Demand Charge is unchanged.

FITZPATRICK WON FIRST PRIZE IN FISH CONTEST

The first month of the prize fish contest at Sweeney & Schonger's closed April 30. Many fish were submitted during the month and many others called up by telephone to find out whether their big fish was large enough to stand a chance.

The April prize for the biggest trout caught during the month went to James Fitzpatrick, of Glen street, who gets a Shakespeare reel. His trout, a German brown, measured 26¾ inches and weighed seven pounds. It was caught in the upper basin at the reservoir on April 18.

The runner-up was R. S. Dixon of 28 Augusta street, who caught a steelhead on April 19 that measured 28½ inches and weighed six pounds and six ounces.

Monday the pickerel season opened and fishermen will have two chances for prizes during May—on pickerel and trout.

Winners for the monthly prizes are also eligible for the season prize.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Often it is in the little known places of Washington, or, rather, in those places that the average person doesn't know how to reach, that he encounters dramatic incidents in this capital city.

HERBERT V. WILEY

And so it was when the navy started its inquiry into the tragic disaster that befell the airship Akron in the early morning hours of Monday, April 4, off the New Jersey coast.

A naval court of inquiry always is impressive. Gold-braided admirals, captains, commanders and lieutenants abound.

A Strange Setting

It was the setting for the Akron inquiry, however, rather than the admirals that impressed observers at this particular court.

Beyond the navy yard, in the southeast section of the city, a barn-like structure wholly out of keeping with the dignity and pomp of the participants was the setting.

Nattily dressed marines guarded the entrances. Interested observers could get in, but first it was necessary to satisfy these marines that you were an interested observer.

Seated behind a green-covered table, resplendent in his gold braid, was the president of the court—that affable but stern old sea dog, Rear Admiral Henry V. Butler. At his right was Captain Harry E. Shoemaker, and at his left, the third member of the court and the lowest in rank, Commander Sidney Kraus. Off to one side was the judge advocate, and to the other the only surviving officer of the ill-starred Akron, Lt. Com. H. V. Wiley.

Wiley knows more, perhaps, than any living man about what happened the night the Akron went to her doom. But he sat there, apparently listening to everything, but taking no part himself.

Expert Testimony

The day we witnessed the court of inquiry in action, two of the most distinguished witnesses were heard. One was Capt. Alger H. Dresel, who now commands the Macon, sister ship of the Akron. The other was Dr. Karl Arnstein, designer of the Akron.

Dresel's task was the hardest. The court wanted to know of him what he would have done that night had he been in command of the Akron. Slowly, weighing every word, and often asking the stenographer to read back what he had said, he told his story. He was the man who recommended that Commander McCord, who lost his life in the disaster, be put in command of the Akron.

It was a situation tense at every moment. Everybody in the room seemed to sense it, even the marine doorkeepers. That is, everybody but the court.

Grim countenances of the admiral, the captain and the commander seemed never to change.

Old Timer's Thoughts Now Turn to Spring

Editor, The Freeman:

Well, sir, the old dog kilt a woodchuck Thursday evenin' and I wuz kinder sorry he done so, account of the critter had most likely jest woke up from his six weeks' nap & was about to enjoy himself during of the warm months to come. After mebbe dreamin' all them weeks of the good times he was goin' to hev in woods & meaderland, he hes the misfortune to get his neck broke the fust time out of the hole. He was a nice fat feller with good thick fur that was purty to look upon & I would ez lief he had managed to beat the dog to the hole, so's he could enjoy a leetle of the fine spring weather.

Now, my farm is bored through and through with underground passages and dens made by chuckers and they air quite a nuisance, 'specially in the hay fields where a hoss is liable to step in one & lame him for life, yet I allus kinder hate to see one of these harmless looking critters turn up his padded toes. Every time I see one of 'em I am reminded of a story in the old red readin' book at school, which told how Ezekiel Webster caught a woodchuck & aimed to kill same, whereupon his brother, who later became the great and only Dan'l of hist'ry fame, hollered out, Zeke, Zeke, you let that woodchuck go! Seems a hundred years sence I heerd boys & gals of my day stand and drone out that story whilst the big old box stove roared within doors and the blizzards raged without. Last summer I run acrost a leetle chuck, about the size of a yearlin' kitten, and thinking to stun him and take him to the house es a pet for the children stayin' there, give him a light clip with the pitchfork. Pore leetle feller couldn't stand even that tap; he was plumb dead and I was sorry I hed not allowed him to go about his business of scoutin' around fer tidbits of tender plants & sechlike.

Fact is, Mr. Ed., all creeters including yrs. truly, hev sech a derned good time at this season of the year that it realy is a shame for man, beast or bird to leave on their last long journey jest when nature is coming out of her trance, so to speak. Yessir, it air plumb wonderful how much delight the critters take in the return of that miracle of beauty which we call Spring. Every day, f'rinstance, I see squirrels, both gray and red; chipmunks too, and they do scamper around to beat the dutch, almost flyin' from tree to tree & stopping on a limb to shake their tails with that peculiar vibration motion suggestive of steel springs. They come clost to the house, ez do also the birds of a dozen diffrunt kinds which Marthy hez encouraged by scatterin' bread crums & other stray vitteis which by all the laws of thrifty farm life had oughter go into the chicken pail or swill barrel. Effen I let the calves out in the barnyard they hev races around the lot at breakneck speed, while the yearlin' heifers air out in the green meaders like a shot effen I should ferget to shet the bars for a minute or two. The hens fair scratch their toe nails in the heaps of dead leaves or on the dung-heap; they sing a merry lay as they dig up fat worms & grubs, and the roosters jaw at the females and act silly ez all kinds of males ginerally do, regardless of the seasons.

Myself, I get a big kick, ez they say, out of this annual revelation of the good Lord's affection & generosity; it air great fun to note the slow but sure development of the Spring scenery, first one thing and then another bustin' forth or poking up outen the good brown earth. Where I hev been working lately, a clearin' up a low spot along the brook at t'other end of long meader, there is a pertickierly good chanct to view the Spring unfolding, account of the grass-blades, goodly smells & so forth allus air resurrected fust in such places. Today, f'rinstance, I cut down a red maple tree that was loaded with showy buds, the same bein' so blamed purty that I broke off a bunch of the twigs to take hum to Marthy. Here too, amongst the black alders which grow big around ez a man's leg, I see skunk cabbage, jest a cone of a nifty green color & about six inches high. Next week the leaves will be unfurled and this early wild plant will be quite a sight to look at. The elderberry leaves air ez big ez a squirrel's foot on the tender shoots next to the ground, while the blood-root and other leetle plants come popping through the leaf mold every leetle while. Spice-bush buds air yellow, and out in my front yard the buds on the old lilac bush hev swelled up reel big, while Marthy's two beds of bleeding hearts hev pushed through the ground already. All this is good fer an old feller to look upon, Mr. Ed.; it helps to make him ferget his age, his troubles, and to remember his Creator. Yessir.

I hed aimed to tech upon several things which hed occurred to me at odd times, but I got a late start account of working overtime in the hen house 'stid of starting the night chores when I ought to hev done so, and here it is 9 o'clock & bed time. Anyhow, your correspondent hez refrained from versifying about the vernal season, and that is something in his favor, eh? I heerd a joke oncet, to wit, That there is allus a brighter side; Spring is never es slushy ez the poetry it inspires. Would ye believe, sir, that I hev not ez yet hed a taste of the new beer, which goes to show how fur back in the woods Marthy & me live. Best beer I ever put down was in San Antonio, Texas, at the old Buckhorn Cafe, the walls of which air hung with hundreds of deer, steer, buffalo & sechlike heads, together with big rattlesnake hides & whatnot. They drawed it out of barrels which was kept cold, and I tell you it tasted right peart, 'specially ez it air not a very coolish place down there in the fall, which was the season of my visit. This 3.2 stuff is plenty alcoholic to suit me; any more than that & I might ez well swig hard cider which I believe rots the innards & pizens the intellect.

Years ago they useter make molasses beer, five pounds molasses, half pint home made yeast & spoonful powdered ginger; pour on two gals. scalding water (water must be soft); shake till fermenting, then add more soft water to fill up your barrel. Fermented 12 hours & bottled with a raisin or two, and the reesult was purty good stuff. Some of the old folks used honey 'stid of molasses—about twelve pounds to the barrel; others made spruce beer by boiling spruce boughs with wheat bran, which they mixed with molasses and worked with yeast. Still others made hops beer. They fed their beer in them days by cutting up a rye loaf well nutmegged, putting same into a narrow bag with some hops & wheat, & putting the bag into the bung-hole of the barrel. Now I hev developed a dry throat, Mr. Ed., so will take a beaker of cold spring water and so to bed.

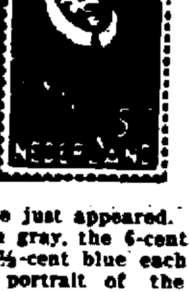
The WORLD of STAMPS

By QUINTON JAMES

William the Silent, around whose name romance has crowded, is being honored this year, the four hundredth anniversary of his birth, by the country he helped to free from Spanish rule.



One item on the Netherlands commemorative program is a special issue of four stamps, which have just appeared.

The 5-cent green gray, the 6-cent violet and the 12½-cent blue each show a different portrait of the country's "father," while the 1½-cent black reproduces his coat of arms.

William was assassinated in 1584 as the result of a reward offered by Philip II of Spain for his life.

From Vatican State

A series of four Holy Year commemoraitves has been issued by the Vatican State, none of them, unfortunately, of particular beauty in design. The values: 25 centesimi plus 10c, green; 75c plus 15c, red; 80c plus 20c, brown and 1.25 lire plus 25c, blue.

The central design in each case is the same—an inner oval with the words "O Crux Ave Spes Unica" (hail, cross, the only hope) around an illuminated cross resting on a sphere representing the world.

The two lower values have an outer oval border bearing the legend, "Poste Vaticane—Anno Santo—1933-34," while in the two higher, bunched ribbons fall on either side of the central design, slightly smaller than in the first two, with "Poste Vaticane" apearing in a ribbon at the top and "Ano Santo" in a rectangle at the bottom.

Akron Stamp Asked.

A special air-mail stamp to commemorate the loss of the dirigible Akron has been asked in a resolution filed by Representative Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania. It requests than an eight-cent stamp in black and white, carrying a picture of the lost dirigible, be printed in an issue of 5,000,000.

Only twice did the dirigible carry air-mail. Both times official cachets were placed on the covers. The first time was her first coast-to-coast flight last May and the second, the tactical training flight which started from Lakehurst on August 1.

Briefly Told.

It was announced recently in the House of Lords that the English post office has no intention of issuing a new set of or adopting the custom of commemorative issues.

Argentina has refused to recognize the new Falkland commemorative issue—holds that the islands are not British but Argentine.

NOTICE OF COMPLETION OF SCHOOL ASSESSMENT

Notice is hereby given that the assessor of the city of Kingston has completed his school assessment roll for the school fiscal year 1933-34. That a copy thereof has been left at his office in the city hall, where it may be seen and examined by any person until the third Tuesday of May next, and that on such day at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, said assessor will attend at the city hall, in the said city, to hear and examine all complaints in relation to such assessments as provided by section 32-A of the city charter as amended.

WILLIAM B. MARTIN,
Assessor.

Dated, April 29, 1933.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, BY THE GRACE OF GOD FREE AND INDEPENDENT,

TO—

FELIPE RODRIGUEZ, MARIA VASQUEZ, ANTONIO ALVAREZ, MANUEL ALVAREZ, RAPHAEL ALVAREZ and RAMON ALVAREZ, all of whom reside at Seoar, Spain, and to all persons interested in the estate of MANUEL RODRIGUEZ, late of the Town of Shandaken, County of Ulster, and State of New York, deceased, as creditors, legatees, next of kin, or otherwise:

SEND GREETING:

You and each of you are hereby cited to show cause at a Surrogate's Court, to be held in and for the County of Ulster, at the Surrogate's office, in the City of Kingston, in said County, on the 6th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why the account of proceedings of Filomena Munoz of the Hamlet of Allaben as Administratrix of the goods, chattels and credits which were of said deceased, should not be judicially settled and allowed, upon the petition of said Administratrix.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, we have caused the seal of office of said Surrogate to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Hon. GEORGE F. KAUFMAN, Surrogate of our said County, at the City of Kingston, the 1st day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three.

[L. S.]

C. K. LOUGHRAN,
Clerk of the Surrogate's Court.

CHARLES W. WALTON,
Attorney for Petitioner,
Office and Postoffice Address,

Gas Acidity and STOMACH ULCERS

You watch a thousand people walk down Main Street—500 of them have acid stomachs—114 of them probably have stomach ulcers whether they know it or not. When gas gets in stomach and indigestion follows eating—watch out—you have an acid stomach. But don't worry—the right thing to do is this—get a can of Bisurated Magnesia (not a laxative) at McBride Drug Stores or your druggist — take it as directed—soon your sour acid stomach is soothed and is able to digest the heartiest meal without discomfort—the acid is neutralized—you're feeling fine once more.

Note: Bisurated is urged purely as a corrective for excess stomach acid, not as an ulcer cure—if you have reason to believe you have ulcers consult your physician—Keeping your stomach in good shape with Bisurated is one way to prevent them.—Advt.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS—In pursuance of an order of Hon. GEORGE F. KAUFMAN, Surrogate of Ulster County, notice is hereby given, according to law, to all persons having claims against Judson Van Gaasbeek late of the City of Kingston County of Ulster, deceased, testate, to present the same with the vouchers in support thereof, to the undersigned Florence E. Financial and Commercial

New York, May 3 (AP)—Financial markets were hesitant and uneasy in quieter trading today.

Inflation fervor was cooled by a more stable dollar in foreign exchange dealings. Mid-week statistics on steel and electric power production were again favorable.

Utilities and a number of industrial specialties were firm in stocks, while rails and oils weakened. Prices backed and filled rather erratically, but by early afternoon, Case was up more than 2, and gains of around a point were registered in American Telephone, American Can, Goodyear, Johns-Manville, International Harvester, North American, and Associated Dry Goods. Santa Fe lost 1½ and Union Pacific 3½, then stiffened. Standard of California reacted a couple of points and Standard of N. J. half as much.

Least favorable of the mid-week business statistics were those from the petroleum industry. Some quarters in the industry felt that the latest flood of oil from the East Texas pool had been so demoralizing as at last to force drastic action which would make the long struggle for effective control successful. Standard of California cut its quarterly dividend to 25 cents from 50, and reported a first quarter deficit, while Socony-Vacuum has this week omitted dividends altogether.

Mid-week reports from the steel trade indicated that higher prices for finished steel were expected as a result of the bulge in that industry. This may eventually affect automobile prices, it was pointed out.

International trade developments attracted attention, particularly the Anglo-Argentine trade agreement. While some quarters took a pessimistic view, expressing the fear that it may hamper expansion of our business with Argentina, others pointed out that our business with the United Kingdom is several times as large, so that if it benefited England, it would benefit our trade with her.

Search Land and Sea For Kidnaped Child

Harwichport, Mass., May 3 (AP).—Police today searched Cape Cod and central Massachusetts for the kidnapers of 20-year-old Margaret McMath while her father reiterated his willingness to pay her abductors to the limit of his ability.

Neil C. McMath, formerly of Detroit and a member of a wealthy and socially prominent family, today cleared his home of all but members of his household and announced he would cooperate to the utmost with the kidnapers to the end that they be not entrapped or prosecuted. The State Police agreed not to police the McMath grounds or otherwise place obstacles that would prevent the kidnapers from negotiating with the McMaths on their premises.

GIBSON GIRL BACK ON FASHION PLATE

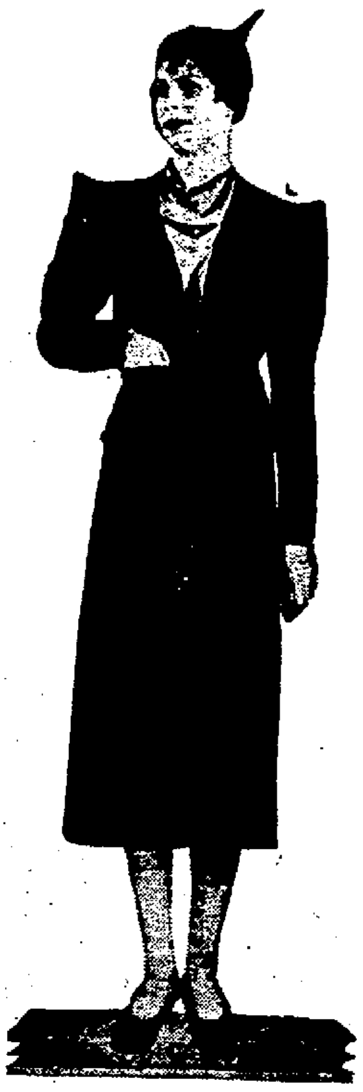
Separate Skirt and Blouse Features Revival.

The Gibson girl staged a revival for herself with the influx of the cannotier. When Americans got through translating cannotier, they found it was just the old-time sailor back again, looking not a bit old-fashioned. Subsequently, the sailor has appeared in all big French and American collections, done one way or another. Now, we feel that, very tiny and "high" looking (in line with the spring millinery trend), it will occupy an even more prominent position than it has done. An amusing point in this back-to-Gibson movement is the revival of the separate skirt and blouse. Along with the great enthusiasm for suits this spring these are popular and promise to vie with dresses.

For a limited income, the advantages are obvious. You buy yourself a well-cut wool or silk skirt and a half dozen blouses. You can ring all sorts of combinations and make your wardrobe look much larger and more elastic than it really is. Nice for girls with jobs.

SHOULDER WIDTH

By CHERIE NICHOLAS



The chic of the new spring suits and coats depends largely upon the novelty of their shoulder treatments. There is Mme. Schiaparelli, for instance, who is of the younger generation of Paris couturiers and who is especially gifted in the creation of original sportswear. None other but a designer of renown would dare do the unique things she does to achieve shoulder width. Bright blue woolen with a slightly darker blue for the skirt fashions the sprightly Schiaparelli suit pictured. Copper links fasten the jacket. The blouse is of powder blue crepe. The hat represents a version of the new style which trends to crown height.

STYLE NOTES

Frilly blouses are in fashion.

The bigger the bow the smarter.

Cotton fabrics are high fashion.

Polka dot satin for the blouse is very new.

Many fine pleats for fullness is latest edict.

Many frocks concentrate style interest at the back.

Horsehair Fabrics Used in New Style Trimmings

Fashion has taken to the horse and who will say neigh?

Experts have created a special hand-knit wool resembling angora, but instead of goat hairs—which they are willing to solemnly swear are not in it—they have sprinkled horsehairs into the fabric to give it that crisp up and standing appearance essential to hats, cuffs and collars and other accessories after the mode.

We hear, too, that wool ribbon for millinery and wool straw-braided wool by another name—will call upon man's best friend to shake a few hairs into it to give it the necessary style for early spring!

Evening Hats

A little evening hat to wear with cocktail or dinner costumes has taken the smart world by storm. Paillette berets, horsehair turbans and velvet circlets are chosen to harmonize with the rest of the costume and worn aslant on a perfectly coiffed head in a manner designed to display much of the coiffure.

Eclectics

The name eclectics is given to those—especially philosophers and painters—who do not attach themselves to any especial school, but pick and choose from various systems, combining doctrines and methods which they find suitable to themselves individually.

Catholic Daughters To Hear Rev. Roth

Members of Court Santa Maria, Catholic Daughters of America, will attend St. Mary's Church in a body at the 8 o'clock Mass next Sunday, and will receive communion.

Following this they will have their annual Communion Breakfast at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The principal speaker of the occasion will be the Rev. Charles H. Roth, S. J., pastor of the Chapel of Our Lady, at the Hudson River State Hospital, north of Poughkeepsie, and a member of the community at the St. Andrew's Novitiate. Father Roth is one of the most interesting preachers and lecturers of the younger men of the order of which he is a member. In addition, he has a keen humor and this adds to his great popularity as a public speaker. Another guest speaker at the breakfast will be the Rev. John J. Stanley, pastor of St. Mary's Church, this city, and dean of the district of Ulster and Sullivan counties. The formal program will be presided over by Mrs. Peter A. Carey, grand regent of the local court, through whom Father Roth was secured as a speaker.

In addition to the speaking there will be vocal and instrumental music, including several solos. The committee has arranged an unusually interesting program and a large attendance of the members is anticipated.

ANNUAL MEETING OF FIRST REFORMED CHURCH.

The annual congregational meeting of the First Reformed Church will be held Thursday evening at 7:30. There will be a short devotional service, after which brief reports of organizations will be read. This will be followed by the election of officers. The out-going elders are C. H. Schoonmaker and Harry S. Ensign. The out-going deacons are John H. Haulenbeek and John B. Snyder. After the business meeting a social hour with refreshments will follow.

66 COUNTRIES INVITED TO WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

Geneva, May 3 (AP).—The secretary general of the League of Nations issued invitations today to 66 countries to attend the world economic conference in London June 12.

Fifty-six of these countries are members of the League and ten are outside, including the United States and Brazil.

The invitations also called to America's tariff truce proposals.

Plan Special Loans In Farm Measure

Washington, May 3 (AP). — Provisions for special loans to debt-burdened farmers faced with the prospect of losing their homes will be the first portion of the farm mortgage bill administered when congressional action on the entire Roosevelt farm program is completed.

It was learned today that Henry Morgenthau, Jr., farm board chairman, and governor-designate of the farm credit administration which will begin functioning May 27, has completed arrangements for giving quick aid under this provision. It is separate from the bill's authorization to refinance up to $2,000,000,000 in farm mortgages through issuance of Federal Land Bank bonds whose interest will be guaranteed by the government.

The Special aid provision authorizes an advance of funds by the Reconstruction Corporation. The Senate bill proposed that his advance be limited to $200,000,000; the House $300,000,000. A compromise at $250,000,000 may be approved by congressional conferees who are expected to adjust such differences in the measure this week.

Funeral Directors Met Tuesday Night

A meeting of the Catskill Mountain Funeral Directors Association was held at the parlors of its president, W. N. Conner, Fair street, Tuesday evening, 35 members being present from Ulster, Sullivan and Greene counties. The charter, which was left open at the meeting April 4, was closed Tuesday evening with a total of 42 members enrolled.

Preceding the business session the members had dinner at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

The most important business of the evening was the discussion of taxation as applied to funeral directors. W. N. Bertrand, field secretary of the New York State Funeral Directors Association, with which the local association is affiliated, was present and explained at length the operations of the retail sales tax, as well as the personal and gross income taxes.

The next meeting of the association will be held in Liberty July 12, with a business session at 4 o'clock and a banquet at 6.

Plass Studies Poultry Costs

For the past two years, Edward L. Plass, president of the Dutchess County Poultry Association, has been conducting experiments to determine the cost of doing electrically individual tasks on his modern poultry farm, located in Pleasant Valley. His cost figures are now made public because they form a valuable contribution to our increasing knowledge of farm operating expense. This subject of knowing farm costs accurately is now receiving more attention by farm operators than ever before because of the growing realization that a farm like any other industry has certain production costs which need to be studied at all times.

In the fall of 1930, Mr. Plass, working in cooperation with the Rural Service Bureau of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, with the State College Extension and Agricultural engineering departments serving in an advisory capacity, installed meters for recording the current consumption of each major electrical appliance operated in his poultry plant and home.

Mr. Plass's poultry farm income is derived principally from the sale of baby chicks, broilers and eggs. His laying flock is kept at about 3,000 and each year about 2,500 pullets are raised.

Poultry Farm Equipment.

Poultry equipment in use on this farm is typical of that found on up-to-date poultry plants operated on a practical paying basis. Hen house lighting, poultry water heating, incubation, battery and hover brooding are all done electrically with a high degree efficiency as will be noted by the cost data which follows:

Mr. Plass's incubating equipment consists of 1 13,000 egg capacity cabinet type electric incubator. Careful records kept on this machine show that in one season 37,700 eggs were set and cost for current per egg incubated electrically was found to be $.0022. Aside from the economical operating expense the chicks hatched in the electric incubators were noted to be sturdier and of better quality. This, Mr. Plass attributed to the fact that the electric heating element does not absorb the oxygen from the air, thus depriving the embryo chick of this vital element, and also because of the precise heat level which can be maintained electrically. Mr. Plass further credits the electric machine with a distinct saving in labor and an added factor of complete safety.

Tests have also been made on this farm on electrically heated battery brooders in which some of the chicks were kept for the first weeks after coming out of the incubator. 4,500 chicks were placed in the battery brooders during this season and the current cost per chick brooded was found to be $.0097.

After the chicks had outgrown the battery brooder stage, 2,325 of them were placed under hover brooders and kept there until they no longer needed heat at a current cost of $.01 per chick brooded. Commenting on his experiences with the electric brooder, Mr. Plass said in a recent radio address over WGY "From personal experience and records and from what I have learned by comparing notes with my fellow poultrymen I have come to the conclusion that electric brooders are practical and give good results and that the cost of operation is comparable to the coal brooders. I might also add that if the item of labor is taken into consideration, especially when brooding large numbers of chicks, electric brooders have a decided advantage. Elimination of the fire hazard is another important factor. Every year the loss by fire to farmers and poultrymen through the burning of brooder houses is particularly astonishing."

Every poultryman knows that the hardest task on any poultry farm, unless suitable means are provided for pumping and piping, is carrying water for the stock. Yet this task of moving over 55,000 gallons of water from the well to the hen house and other buildings on the Plass farm was done at a yearly cost for current of only $1.56 by an electric pump. During the winter months Mr. Plass was able to keep the drinking water in his hen houses from freezing by using electrically heated water fountains. Drinking water for an average flock of 3,000 hens was kept warm during the winter months at a daily cost of $.12.

Poultry house lighting, recognized by all poultry authorities as an easy means of increasing winter egg production, was used during eight months of the test at a daily cost for current of $.04.

For The Housewife.

Now, let's leave the poultry yard and go to the house. Here are records of real interest to both the farmer and his wife.

The task of washing and ironing has made many housewives prematurely old. In the Plass home this heavy work is being done by an electric washer and ironer. The cost for doing each washing and ironing electrically was $.007 per individual.

That the task of preparing meals is no small one is borne out by the fact that over 8,933 individual meals were prepared during the year in the Plass household. To do this efficiently and with the greatest ease, an electric range was used, the operating cost of which was found to be $.008 per individual meal.

The need for year round protection of food is recognized in this kitchen. Electric refrigeration cost but $1.19 per month. Hot water, always on tap at 140 degrees, is furnished by a 50 gallon electric water heater.

These figures all tell a story of the complete cost of having an electric genii available 24 hours per day in the farm and home.

Kite flying from the decks of steamers promises to become a recreational feature of Pacific coastwise trips.

Kingston: "Cavalcade." Noel Coward's great stage success made into one of the greatest pictures of this or any year. Clive Brook as an upper middle class English officer leaves his wife (Diana Wynward) broken hearted as he goes to the Boer War. His safe return starts a life of happiness for them, rearing two sons. But again fate steps in and both boys are taken from them, one in a maritime disaster and the other in the World War. But despite their sorrows the two parents carry on courageously to the end of a perfect picture. Clive Brook offers the best performance of his career and Diana Wynward's acting has made her a star in the movie world. Herbert Mundin and Una O'Connor, the butler and maid, display some wonderful acting. Besides forty featured players there are thousands in the cast. A great picture.

Orpheum: "American Madness" and "Western Limited". The first is a really good story of the depression times. The action covers a period of 24 hours, the entire period being crammed with exciting and dramatic happenings. Walter Huston gives a delightful performance. Pat O'Brien, Kay Johnson and Constance Cummings are also very good, but the picture itself is the real big thing. The second, with Estelle Taylor as the featured player, offers plenty of action and many exciting episodes.

Broadway: "Fast Workers." John Gilbert is starred in this picture, playing the part of a hard boiled riveter who is some lover. Mae Clarke supports Mr. Gilbert and is real good. Robert Armstrong is also in the cast as the buddy of Gilbert, and offers some good comedy relief.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: Same.
Orpheum: Same.

Broadway: "Rome Express." A fascinating DeLuxe train ride from Paris to Rome. Stirring melodrama with robbery and murder. Some excellent comedy and splendid acting by the entire cast. Esther Ralston plays the leading feminine role with Conrad Veidt leading the male players. Good entertainment.

ARDONIA

Ardonia, May 3—Mr. and Mrs. Eber Palmer were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rulie Ward in Modena Sunday.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—For once, the screen is achieving up-to-dateness by delving into the past.

For some reason the "gay nineties" never have been popular as a period against which to plant screen romance, until now. A few pictures laid in the setting of the mauve decade were attempted from time to time.

Now there is a veritable epidemic of films whose characters know the delights of a bicycle-built-for-two, the picturesqueness of quaint puff-sleeved, wasp-waisted costumes, the atmosphere of bric-a-brac and ornately adorned parlors, the gayety of beer gardens and simpler living.

How It Started

The epidemic began in mild form with such films as "Back Street" and "The Conquerors," in which characters moved through years of incidents and events to an old age in the present day. It rose to its height in Mae West's "She Done Him Wrong." .. dozen pictures currently focus attention on the same period—such as "Sweepings," "The Secret of Madame Blanche," "The Great Jasper," "Cavalcade" and "Frisco Jenny." Now being made are "Jennie Gerhardt," "The Song of Songs" and "The American," life-story of the late Mayor Cermak of Chicago.

The success of good pictures, no matter what their setting or period, is sufficient reason for the sudden popularity of the "gay nineties," but in the life of today producers may see a decided parallel to the life of that period, thus making it as "up-to-date" as 1933.

For one thing, the styles worn by women then were not far different from those which are the mode today. The designer's creations are admittedly derived from the "old-fashioned" affectations of the nineties.

Back To Simpler Ways

The depression, too, bringing with it a reversion to simpler forms of amusement, and a general change in the group outlook on life, makes the parallel still more striking.

The revived interest in bicycling, now sweeping the country, is another phase which, with the return of beer—in some places—emphasizes the similarity of today and the day before yesterday.

Talks to parents

Fighting Fair

By ALICE JUDSON PEALE

The young mothers in a certain neighborhood were distressed because nearly every day one or another of their six, seven or eight year old sons was sure to come home with a black eye, a bloody nose, with scratches, bruises and sometimes, even, teeth marks.

The problem of fights was really becoming a serious one when one father and mother had an idea which met the difficulty.

It was the father of the most belligerent boy who suggested to the rest that as long as they wanted to fight they ought to do it according to the rules of fighting, just like men. On several Saturday afternoons following the boys of the neighborhood collected to be taught how to fight.

They learned that it wasn't fair to scratch, bite, kick or hit below the belt; also that nobody who thought anything of himself would fight anyone who was much smaller than himself. This cramped their style of course, but they submitted to the restrictions because they were "men's" rules.

Thereafter when a fight arose in the course of play the rest of the boys gathered around to referee. The fight had to be "fair." Infringements of the rules were greeted with jeers, cat calls and interference.

As a result the fights brought fewer injuries and were less frequent than heretofore and more in the nature of relatively harmless duels, by means of which honor could be vindicated or one's rights proven.

Forbidding boys to fight is futile since a certain amount of fighting seems to be a necessary outlet for the aggressive impulses of healthy boys the world over.

The only sensible thing to do is to teach them the rules of fighting and a proper pride in fighting fair.

Harry Maisenhelder and his Commanders, Kingston orchestra, have been hired to play for the annual prom at St. Stephen's College at Annandale on the Hudson Friday night.

Daniel and Noah Webster

The relationship between Daniel Webster and Noah Webster, if any, has never been established. Records show that Daniel Webster, the statesman and orator, was born at Salisbury, N. H., January 18, 1782, and was descended from Thomas Webster who first appeared in Watertown, Mass., in 1635; and that Noah Webster, of dictionary fame, was born in Hartford, Conn., October 16, 1758, and was descended from John Webster, one of the first settlers at Hartford, in 1636. But there is no known relationship between the two.

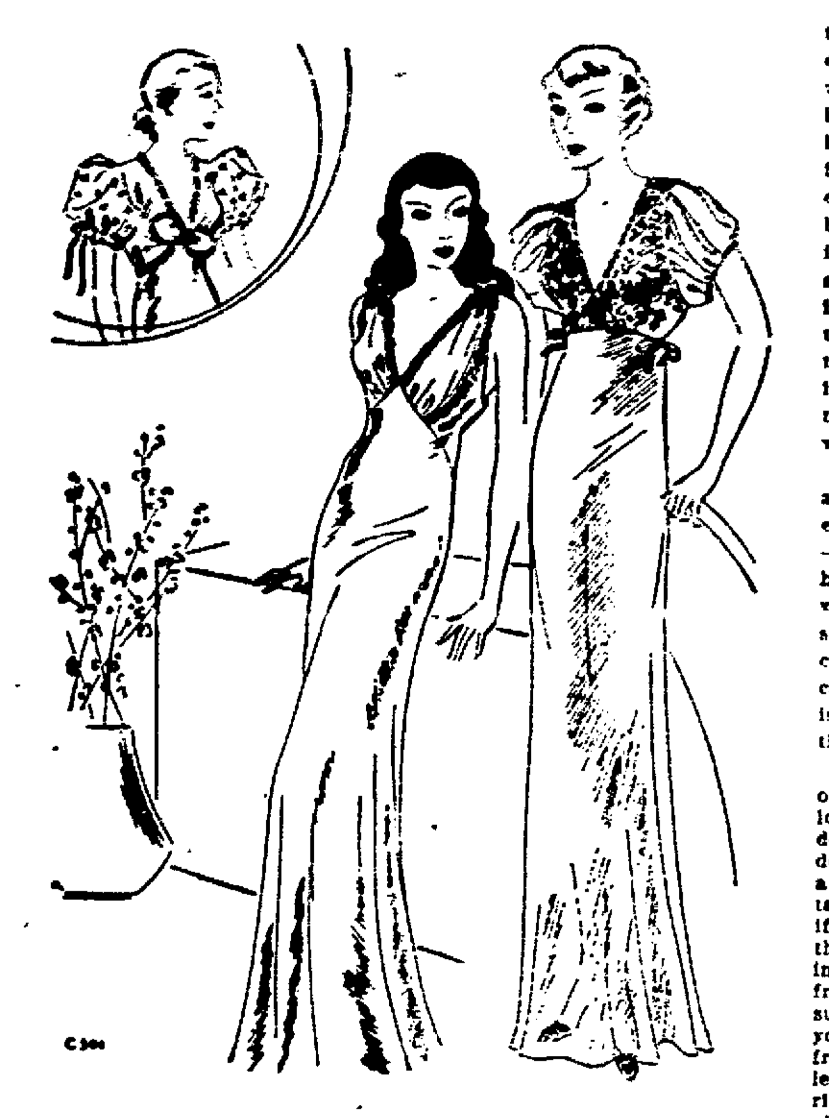
FASHIONS by ELEANOR GUNN

All Dressed Up for Bed



Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild

The jacket gown at the left, with the jacket shown sketched in the upper left corner, is made of tea rose French crepe with tiny lace edging accenting the gathered tab ends which finish the draped bodice at the top of the shoulders. The jacket has white organdie sleeves covered with embroidery, and finished with blue ribbons.

The second gown is a sheer, in triple crepe with its gown sleeves slashed and picoted so that the arm shows through; the V decolletage bodice is almost entirely of lace.

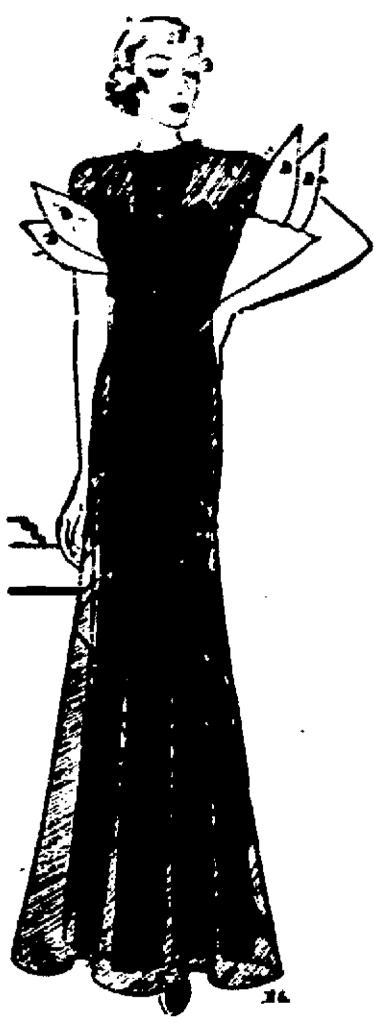
No Fabric But May Be Barred

New York—Of course you are not too grown up to wear gingham. Of course you can wear plaids—anywhere and everywhere, as Cinderella before and after the ball and at the ball itself. Some of the most striking dance frocks are made of white organdie with enormous plaids in bars of black or a strong color. The idea of printed organdie, a very sweet girly fabric in sports motifs instead of in rosebuds, is a new one this season. Leave it to a Scotchman to think of plaid organdie, and leave it to a canny Scot to make them attractive enough to make everyone want it.

While plaid organdies are 1933 and plaid ginghams as old as the everlasting hill—well, nearly as old—there are plenty of ginghams worn hereabouts and plenty of cotton voiles and other not so easy to classify cottons. We have grown so accustomed to see plaids on sophisticates that just by way of change here is a reminder that the sweet young things like them too.

Pleats, gone but a brief spell from our midst, are now making up for lost time. There are so many pleated details on summer frocks that they deserve honorable mention. Adding a pleated ruffle here or there is not taboo nor is pleating the whole dress if one has a yen for that sort of thing. Some fabrics are so crinkly in themselves that they need no help from the pleating machines. Seersuckers are in this category, and if you are going in for shirtmaker frocks this summer you will want at least one seersucker. There are also ribs other than those of pique, yet pique seems to have a tremendous start on all the others. There is ribbed garbardine, should you be interested, and I think you will be, especially in some of the new darker shades which it hardly seems necessary to say include beer, ale, lager and all the rest of it. The so-called town colors in cottons are especially well liked this year.

SOME TAILORING ADDED



Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild

A frock fashioned of black mousseline de soie, the pique used for the cuffs with rhinestone buttons. The high neckline, the rhinestone buttons and the brief sleeves are all worthy of attention.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, May 2—Services will be held in St. John's Memorial Church Sunday, May 7, as follows: Evening prayer with sermon by the Rev. Auguste F. Marlier of Holy Cross Church, Kingston, at 8 o'clock, daylight saving time. Confirmation class will meet at 7:30 o'clock. Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.

On Thursday, May 4, there will be an archdeaconry meeting in Newburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Colburn of New York city spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly.

Frank Joseph of New York city spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. Catherine Joseph.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert White, Sr., of Newark, N. J., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hodge.

Mr. and Mrs. James Joseph of Tannersville were dinner guests of Mrs. Catherine Joseph on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly of Bayonne, N. J., who have been spending the past week at their bungalow here, returned to the city on Sunday.

There was a good attendance at the Sunday evening service in St. John's Church. The Rev. A. F. Marlier had charge of the service and preached an inspiring sermon.

Hubert Smith and Van Lear Woodward have been appointed delegates to attend the diocesan convention held in New York city on May 9.

There will be an old fashioned dance in St. John's parish hall on Saturday evening, May 6. The proceeds will go to the church.

Candyland Prices.

Contrary to rumors, prices have not been raised at Candyland, but on the nights that the orchestra is featured, a minimum fee is charged for dancing. Those desiring only refreshments will be charged regular prices.

What History Remembers

It is the higher values which have achieved the greater results. Wisdom, creative work, love and art, have left the deepest marks on history.

"Will you marry me—?"

and while she listened happily she remembered—

"I'M sure I could never be guilty of perspiration odor in underthings." How many girls say this. We hate to admit we could offend in such an unforgivable way.

Yet we all perspire. Underthings absorb the perspiration and there is bound to be odor. Others notice it so quickly!

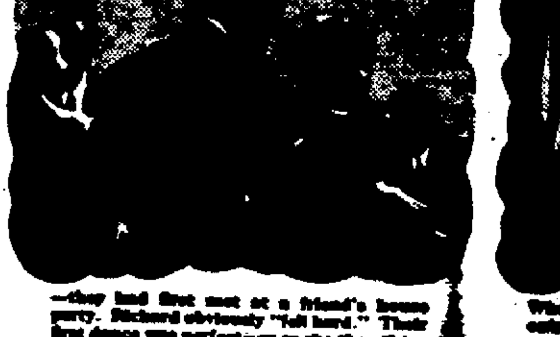
Avoid Offending—

Underthings absorb perspiration odor—protect daintiness this way:

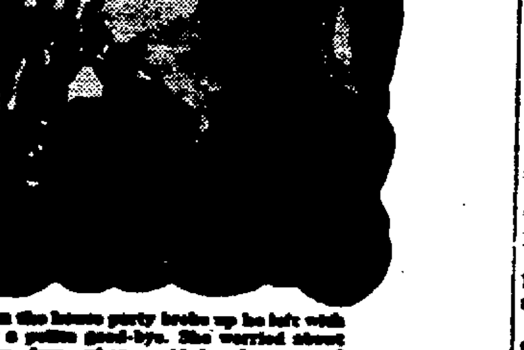
It's so easy to Lux underthings after each wearing and then you know you're dainty. Lux removes every trace of perspiration odor and saves colors and fabrics.

Ordinary soaps often contain harmful alkali which fades colors and weakens silk. Avoid them. Avoid cake-soap rubbing, too.

Lux has no harmful alkali and with Lux there's no rubbing. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux!

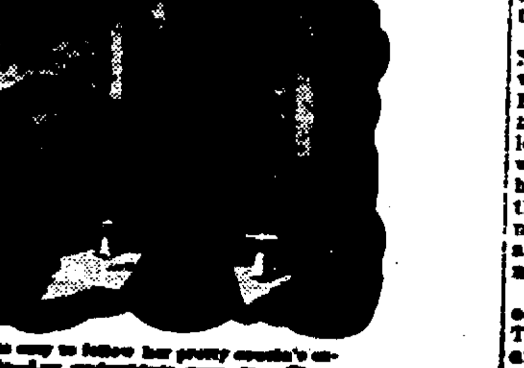


—they had first met at a friend's house party. Richard obviously "fell hard." Their first dance was perfect—or so she thought—and yet he didn't ask for another.



When the house party broke up he left with only a polite good-bye. She worried about it for days—what could be the matter? Would she never see him again?

One day her cousin, who was visiting her, dropped a hint. About perspiration odor in underthings, and how often any romantic interest is killed by this unforgivable offense.



It was easy to follow her pretty cousin's example—Lux underthings every day. Then, later, she met Richard again . . . now they're planning happiness together.

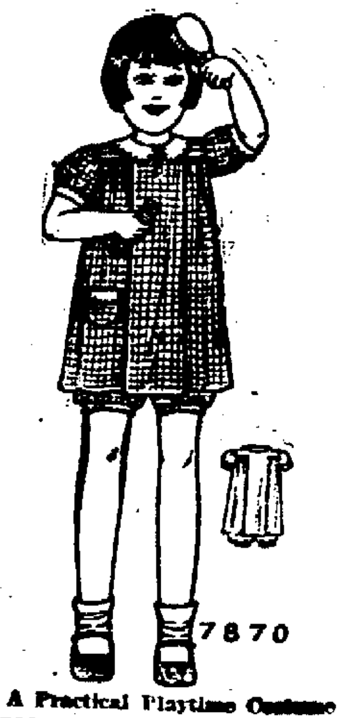
OUR DAILY PATTERN



A Practical Playtime Costume

7870. Comfort and ease are expressed in this little model. Full side sections join yoke and panel portions of the dress. The sleeve is a short puff gathered to a sleeve band, and trimmed with an upturned cuff. A serviceable pocket is applied on the right side front. The bloomers are finished with leg bands and waistbands. A "little girl" collar finishes the neck edge. Checked gingham with pique for collar and cuffs is pictured here. One could also use cotton prints, rep, linen or pongee. Striped shirting, or crepe is also suggested.

Designed in 4 sizes: 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. Size 3 will require 2⅜ yards of 35 inch material, together with 1-3 yard of contrasting material for collar, cuffs, pocket facings, and leg bands if made as in the large view. The dress alone in monotone will require 1⅝ yard of 35 inch material. The bloomers alone will require ¾ yard.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 13c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

"Calvacade" Hailed As Epic Picture Is At Kingston Theatre

"Calvacade," by Noel Coward, hailed by nearly every first rank critic who has witnessed it, as "the greatest talking picture ever produced," opened Tuesday evening at the Kingston Theatre, where it will continue until Saturday. The story, while it has no direct "plot," is a tale of the British Empire and the mettle of its people from 1900 until New Year's eve 1932.

The story opens with a war which takes away from their homes Robert Marryot and his butler, Alfred Bridges. To their wives the ordeal would have faded into insignificance if they could have seen a few years ahead, for England's war in 1900 was a tea party!

Story Moves Through History.

From the Boer War the story moves on through the years which brought the first long distance airplane (it flew 20 miles!) and witnessed the appalling Titanic disaster in which the elder Marryot son (John Warburton) dies with his lovely bride (Margaret Lindsay) until it reaches the world cataclysm that made a battlefield of Europe.

The Marryots, now Sir and Lady, are parted again, and their younger son (Frank Lawton) also is plunged into war. Lady Jane—a tragic figure, her great mother heart resentful of the terrible circumstances, is left alone.

A secret love affair between the Marryot boy and Fanny Bridges, daughter of the former family servants who have in the meantime made money in the liquor trade, brings in a suggestion of class struggle, but on the stroke of Armistice, 1918, we find that a war grave has claimed the boy.

The story ends with a terrific climax told in daring symbolism exposing the social madness which followed the war.

Film Is a Triumph.

There is no sermonizing; just a vivid panorama hitting off the trend of national and social life of the past 30 years, and pulsating with a story of motherly devotion and youthful passion, of false hopes and thwarted love.

"Cavalcade" is a triumph in dramatic conception. Superb acting comes from Diana Wynyard and Clive Brook as the Marryots, from Frank Lawton and Ursula Jeans as the tragic young lovers, from Herbert Mundin and Una O'Connor as the social upstarts, from Irene Browne as a gay old widow and others who enact the forty-odd speaking parts.

There is something unforgettable in the mammoth crowds. Never has any great screen production had so much to offer. There is something for everybody in this pulsing, searching, accusing, enthralling drama of the twentieth century—and of the generation that was sacrificed for a future that still must be made secure.

The direction by Frank Lloyd is a triumph.

Mrs. Buck Quits Without Regrets

New York, May 3 (AP).—Pearl S. Buck, the novelist, is quitting her life as a missionary with neither rancor nor regret, she said today in her first extended pronouncement since her resignation was accepted by the Presbyterian Board of Missions.

"I feel just as I did before," said Mrs. Buck. "Of course, I didn't know I was such a nuisance to the board before all this came up, and certainly I shouldn't want to continue a nuisance.

"You see, I never did do the evangelical sort of thing anyway. I was a teacher, and I haven't even been teaching for three years or so.

"So I expect to go back to China and to continue my life just where I left off, only without the formal title of missionary. By my life I mean my writing, which takes up a great deal of my time indeed, and my job of being a wife and a mother.

"I'm still devoted to China, and I imagine I always shall be. China is my home, and I am happy there. I'm sure all this will make no difference to me, or to my friends.

"Nor do I harbor any resentment at all about the tangle or its results. You see I'm still a Christian. I'm a Christian by conviction and shall continue one. My status as a missionary or as a lay member has nothing to do with that.

"Am I still a Presbyterian? Surely—oh well. I don't think that's very important. I don't go in for creeds and that sort of thing so very much. I'm just a Christian."

Boldest American Pirate

Probably the most daring American pirate was a man named Teach. Some records say his name was Saxon Teach, others Edward Teach. His piratical name was Blackbeard. He lived in the early Eighteenth century and cruised in the Atlantic, and especially around the West Indies. He was exceptionally fierce and took many prizes. His principal daring consisted, however, in the fact that about half of the time he spent ashore, where he passed as a prosperous planter. He became a member of the governor's council in his home colony, North Carolina. Living highly respected in that community, he would periodically disappear, giving out that he was away on business. On these trips he joined his pirate ship and commanded it in its raids on commerce. He was finally taken and hanged with his crew.

Roach Corrects Prescott on Cuts

Kingston, N. Y.,
May 3, 1933.

To the Editor,
Kingston Freeman
Dear Sir:

In your issue of the 2nd there appeared an article under the heading: Finds Increase in Taxes Despite Cuts; which set forth a schedule of salary cuts handed state employes.

Being a state employe for more than 25 years, I have come under this ruling and wish to correct Mr. Prescott as to the amounts of salary reductions.

In accordance with the provision of law, enacted and effective April 16, 1933, the salaries of all state employes, receiving over two thousand dollars ($2,000) per year are reduced. Reductions made on a percentage basis except where such deduction would bring the salary below $2,000; the amount reduced in such cases is a flat sum, that is, on all salaries from $2,010 to $2,120 reductions amount to $10, $20, $30, $40, $50, $60, $70, $80, $90, $100, $110 and $120 per year.

This percentage rule works as follows:

On all salaries over $2,120, 6 per cent on the first $2,000, and 7 per cent of the amount by which the salary exceeds $2,000; 8 per cent of the amount by which the salary exceeds $3,000, but does not exceed $4,000; 9 per cent of the salary by which it exceeds $5,000, but does not exceed $10,000. Deductions to retirement system to remain the same as formerly under base salary.

Therefore, Mr. Editor, instead of a $2,500 man receiving a reduction of $30 as shown by Mr. Prescott, he is reduced 6 per cent of the first $2,000 or $120, and 7 per cent of the $500 or $35, or a total reduction of $155 per year.

Beside this each and every employe of the State Department of Public Works, in the Bureau of Highways, was granted one month leave of absence without pay, so therefore I must say Mr. Prescott's mathematics are slightly in error, and if this is true of the rest of his letter I would say he is either a disappointed voter, or talking through his hat.

Very truly yours,
B. V. ROACH,
Asst. Civil Engr.
State Dept. Public Works, Division of Highways.

Samoans Happy People; They Laugh at Anything

The Samoans are a happy race. They are smiling all the time except when they are laughing and it takes very little to make them laugh. A large group of native stevedores toiling under the torrid sun were thrown into convulsions by the sight of a tractor which they were taking from the hold. They concluded it was some new kind of automobile with a single seat.

The Samoan has little or nothing to worry him and hence his jovial disposition. His food grows all about him and his clothing demands are quite limited. A clean garment of bright colors and some cheap jewelry make a well-dressed woman and the young children wear no clothes at all. There are many short and sudden showers, but as a rule the climate is warm and sunny and the temperament of the people seems to be the same.—Los Angeles Times.

Nelson Relics

The announcement of the sale of a spy glass said to have been the property of Lord Nelson has been the means of arousing greater interest in the Nelson relics. An aged clerk of the admiralty remembered having seen a small desk stored in an attic of one of the government buildings which was thought to have a Nelson connection and when the search was made it was located and cleaning revealed an inscription roughly scratched upon it, indicating that it had been the property of Lord Nelson. It was repaired and sent to the reconditioned Victory. Another desk and spy glass were discovered in the British consulate at Tripoli. All of these relics are duly authenticated.

The campus cop at the University of California now drives a radio-equipped car.

Repealers Beat Gardeners 4-3, In City League Opener

The City Baseball League was auspiciously opened at the Athletic Field Tuesday evening when the Morgan Repealers nosed out the Sills Gardeners, 4 to 3, in a game, which at the outset, looked like it would be anything but the close one it eventually turned out to be.

Approximately 1,000 fans attended the game and they appeared to be well pleased with the contest. It was undoubtedly the largest assemblage that ever attended an opener if not any City League game.

Both teams started the first inning with a bang and before the dust had cleared each team had piled up three runs, and one of the starting pitchers—Jimmy Doyle of the Repealers—had been sent to the showers.

Doyle was able to get only one batter out and was nicked for three hits and issued one pass the brief time he pitched. Two of the hits went for extra bases.

Ted Fraleigh relieved Doyle and after one run was scored on him he checked the rally. Fraleigh had a stormy session in the second inning, but with the aid of some bad baserunning and poor coaching by the Gardeners, and smart fielding by his teammates he managed to survive the inning unscathed. From then on he held full control. Three hits were made off his delivery.

Paul Joyce was on the mound for the Gardeners and gave Fraleigh a good battle, after an unsteady start. Although he walked the first two men to face him he would have fared much better if his support hadn't faltered at the critical moments. Four hits were all that the Repealers could collect off his slants.

Not one of the batters on either team was able to get more than one hit, but out of a total of 10 hits made by both sides five of them went for extra bases.

Paul Joyce and Charlie Lay poled the most prolific hits of the evening, each one getting a triple which sent in two runners. Cullum, Embree and Cragan connected for doubles.

After Moore grounded out in the first inning Bobby Cullum drove a hot one through L. Bruhn and reached second base on it. Dawkins singled to left field and Joyce then inserted his triple to send Cullum and Dawkins scurrying across the platter with the first runs of the season for the Gardeners. Doyle walked Cragan and walked himself right out of the game by doing so. Fraleigh entered at this time and laid down a neat bunt to sacrifice Joyce home for the third run.

By taking advantage of Joyce's wildness the Repealers were able to tie the score in their half of the frame. F. Bruhn and Merritt received free transportation to first base to start. F. Bruhn registered when Johnson let Sickler's grounder get through him. Merritt and Sickler dented the rubber with the tying runs after Lay hit his triple.

Bob Sickler, who reached first base three times as a result of errors, scored the winning run in the third inning. He reached first base when Cullum booted his grounder and advanced to third on two infield outs. On an attempted steal of home Davitt hit a high ball pitched to him and Sickler brought home the run that decided the first contest.

SIDELINERS

Jimmy Morgan, coaching at third base for the Repealers, kept his men on their toes every minute. His antics reminded one of Hughey Jennings.

Charlie Lay, who copped the shirt and necktie donated by Sweeney & Schonger for the first home last season, came near repeating. His triple would have been an easy homer if the automobiles on Cornell street hadn't checked its course.

Bill Schwab entered the game as a pinch hitter, but was unable to produce. He whiffed two and had the last one called on him.

Umpire Joe "Shuler" Carr had his rule book with him and it came in handy. He called a balk on Joyce in the third inning, but Coach Schwab proved to him that a pitcher can't make a balk when throwing to second base.

Schryvers vs. Clows Tonight

Clow's Dairymen and Schryver's Lumbermen will face each other at the Athletic Field this evening in the second contest of the season. The Lumbermen on paper look like they will cause plenty of trouble for any team in the league and some of the experts have given them an even chance of copping the cup. But this fact doesn't seem to bother Mat Lenahan and his Dairymen, who claim they are just as good as any of them. Big Ed Wilson and Jack Robins will make up the Lumbermen's battery. Gus Weidemann and Luke Roosa will do the laboring for the Dairymen.

Tagging Major League Bases

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Not the least of the season's major league surprises has been the showing of the Cincinnati Reds, generally picked to start and finish in the National League cellar.

Against the strong western clubs, the Reds made a record that was a little short of amazing. Paced by Sunny Jim Bottomley on the offensive side and Red Lucas on the hill, they won five games and lost seven in their home sector, outpointing both the champion Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals. Had they been able to discover the necessary combination against the Pittsburgh Pirates they would be right up with the leaders now. As it was they were forced to accept five successive beatings from the Buccaneers.

Reds Win by Homers.

Opening their eastern invasion yesterday with Bottomley on the shelf, the Reds summoned up enough power to turn back the Boston Braves and their star southpaw, Ed Brandt, 2-1. Home runs by Durocher and Ernie Lombardi accounted for both Cincinnati runs. Bob Smith, who took the mound when Larry Benton was hit on the arm by a batted ball in the first inning, stopped the tribe with five hits the rest of the way.

All other western clubs in both leagues, with the single exception of the Pirates, National League leaders, whipped eastern rivals in the first general intersectional firing.

Lopsided Victories

The Cubs and the Cardinals put on big batting sprees at the expense of the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers respectively. Chicago hammered out 15 hits, including two homers by Gabby Hartnett and one by Riggs Stephenson and won 11-0 as Lon Warneke blanked the Giants with three hits. St. Louis hit almost as frequently and effectively while Walter Beck did some wild pitching for the Dodgers and the result was a 13 to 4 victory for the cards.

Pittsburgh pounded Flint Rhem for four runs in the opening inning but submitted tamely thereafter while the Phillies got to Larry French in the second, scoring five runs in a burst that was capped by Chuck Klein's homer with two aboard and won 6-5.

Close Games

The first and last teams in the American League standing went down in closely contested games. The Detroit Tigers, held to six hits by Charley Ruffing, bunched four in a row in the seventh inning for two runs that gave them a 3-2 decision over the league leading New York Yankees. Joyner White's pinch hit drove in the deciding tallies. The St. Louis Browns had to go ten innings before George Blaeholder settled his own mound duel with Dusty Rhodes. With Irving Burns on third, Blaeholder laid down a neat bunt that brought in the run that gave St. Louis a 2-1 victory.

The Philadelphia-Chicago and Washington-Cleveland games were postponed.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Tragedy has ridden hard upon the flying heels of America's foremost Olympic track talent.

The death of George Saling, slim Iowa hurdling ace, following the injuries that ended Bill Carr's foot-racing career, has been a shocking blow to our athletes.

With Eddie Tolan, George Simpson and Ralph Hill in retirement, the United States has few of its outstanding foot-racers of the 1932 Olympics and none of the winners left in competition this year.

Ralph Metcalfe has come on again, after his Olympic setbacks, to show he is the best sprinter in the country, but Ben Eastman has been laid up with a tendon injury, which may handicap him for the rest of the season.

Equalled World Record

Saling lacked Percy Beard's amazing stride and Jack Keller's dazzling speed over the high timbers, but the Iowa boy beat both to the tape in the Olympic 110-meter hurdles final after equalling the world record of 14.4 seconds in his semi-final heat.

Saling combined good technical hurdling form with an unusually fine competitive temperament. He was bothered by a bad knee in training at Los Angeles but offered no complaints or alibis before testing the mark against the world's fastest collection of timber-toppers. He came from behind in the final to nip Beard after it appeared the lanky Alabaman had the race "sewed up."

Like a number of our star athletes, Saling reached an early summer "peak" last season when he won the 120-yard high hurdles in the world record time of 14-1 seconds at the N. C. A. A. championships, but he still had the stuff to recover from a slight let-down and give one of his greatest performances in the Olympics, under severe pressure.

More Brother Acts

The Finney and Johnson brothers have moved into major league baseball company this spring to rival for the time being such well known family acts as those contributed by the Waners, the Sewells and the Ferrells.

Lou Finney has been striving mightily to fill the big shoes of Al Simmons in the Athletics' outer patrol while Brother Hal Finney is sharing the Pittsburgh backstopping with Earl Grace.

The Johnsons, Bob of the Athletics and Ray of the Red Sox, have won outfield jobs for themselves by heavy hitting. Both are products of the Pacific Coast League and both have Cherokee Indian blood in their veins.

Dizzy Dean's young brother, Paul, still is being groomed in the Cardinal farm system, at Columbus, but he may be up in the big show next season.

Pignone Outpoints Jaggers in Feature For Legion Benefit

Unable to defend himself against numerous right uppercuts, terrific punches under the heart and a ripping right hook that had his left eye highly inflated, Ambrose Jaggers, Ellenville welterweight humbly bowed to Ralph Pignone, 146 pound from Poughkeepsie, in the feature bout of the American Legion welfare fund card at the old armory Tuesday night before a gathering of fight fans that was not large enough to enrich the coffers of the ex-servicemen's organization to any great extent.

Jaggers, looking nothing like the rugged little puncher who almost knocked out Pignone last week, failed to take even one round last night, according to the experts at the ringside. The first frame was called even and the other five went to the Poughkeepsie Italian by a wide margin. He hit the northern Ulster county pugilist with uppercuts galore, stiff rights under the heart and in the fourth round connected with the right hook that made Jaggers's left eye puff up like a balloon. This handicap added to his distress. Pignone kept up a steady drill on the injury. His rapid-fire punches prevented Jaggers from getting into position to toss any of the dangerous blows, especially his lethal right, that came pretty near to spelling defeat for the Bridge City boy by the kayo route last week.

Last night's result evened the standing between the two battlers, both of whom would probably like to meet in a "rubber" if amateur boxing continues in Kingston under the direction of the State Athletic Commission which was given power to control all boxing by virtue of the Nunan bill which Governor Lehman signed late Tuesday.

Emerson Victorious

Buddy Emerson, St. Remy pride, tipping the beam at 131, outpunched Freddie Martin of Poughkeepsie, weight 123, in the semi-final six rounder. After the second chukker Martin, a southpaw, slowed up considerably. He shifted his attack from left to right several times, allowing Emerson to crash through with stinging rights to the head that had him in a bad way near the end of the match.

Previous to the fight Roy Van-Buren, local featherweight, was introduced from the ring. He issued a challenge to the winner of the bout.

Other Results

Sam Yerkes, 158, Ellenville, got the decision over Frankie Kouhout, 156, Kingston, four rounds.

Izzy Schwartz, 130, Ellenville, outpointed Tony Rodriguez, 129, Kingston, four rounds.

Benny Segal, 150, Ellenville, knocked out Harold Mowers, 152, Kingston negro, in 1:20 of the second round.

Officials: Bill Singer, referee; Gene Harrison and J. Finnerty, judges; Morton Finch, timer; Sam Riber, announcer.

There will be no bouts next Tuesday as announced, because State Commander Dr. George J. Lawrence of the American Legion will visit the local post on that day. Whether there will be bouts here thereafter depends on arrangements between the Legion and the State Athletic Commission which now has control over all boxing.

Governor Signs The Nunan Bill

Albany, N. Y., May 3 (AP).—Amateur boxing and wrestling shows today became under the jurisdiction of the State Athletic Commission, the same as professional shows, under terms of the Nunan bill signed last night by Governor Lehman.

The new law provides that the amateur clubs which charge an admission fee must return five per cent on their gross receipts, exclusive of the federal taxes, to the department of state, within 48 hours after the show takes place.

The only contests exempt from the provisions of the bill are those held under National Guard or naval militia auspices where the contestants are members of the Guard or militia, shows put on by any institution of learning recognized by the University of the State of New York, provided the contestants are all amateurs, and the Amateur Athletic Union and American Olympic Association contests.

The commission must grant permission for all shows.

Senator Joseph D. Nunan, young Queens Democrat, sponsored the bill.

BILLIARDS

At Nick's Tuesday night in the double-header of the city billiard championship series, results were as follows:

Andy Cherney 100, Andy Krum 75, in 30 innings.

High runs were 10 each.

Bob East 100, Johnny Nocerato 99, in 47 innings.

At the Kenny A. C. tonight Tony Gentile meets Andy Krum.

Georgia building and loan associations lent $1,110,341 for construction of 98 new homes and refinancing of 963 others during 1932.

Just a Little Smile

SEEING AHEAD

Farmer Hardpate's place lay right in the line of the approaching railway survey, and the company was anxious to conciliate the old man. The diplomatic agent went out to see him, and finally thought to clinch the matter, saying: "Our company offers you $500 in cash and $1,000 worth of stock for the right of way through your farm."

"No, sir-ree!" retorted old Hardpate. "I don't want no railroad running around here. Fust thing ye know ye'll be killing some of my live stock an' I'd have to help pay fur it as a stockholder."

Shod at Sunrise

"Private Rooney," said the cavalry officer at the training camp, "take my horse down and have him shod."

For three hours the lieutenant waited for his horse. Then impatiently he sent for Rooney.

"Private Rooney," he said, "where is that horse I told you to have shod?"

"Omigosh!" gasped the private, growing pale, "Omigosh! Did you say shod?"

Oh, That Hood!

Mistress (explaining routine to new cook)—Now, my husband always goes to his club on Wednesday evenings.

Cook—I understand, ma'am. So he won't want no breakfast on Thursdays.—Humorist.

Making a Complete Job

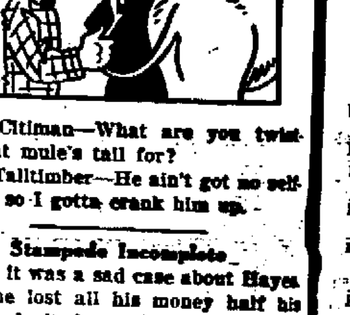
He—Not often, but when it does happen they take the employer, too.—Stray Stories.

STARTING HIM UP



Mr. Citiman—What are you twisting that mule's tail for?

Mr. Talltimber—He ain't got no self-starter so I gotta crank him up.

Stampede Incomplete

"Yes, it was a sad case about Hayes. Since he lost all his money half his friends don't know him any more."

"What about the other half?"

"They don't know yet that he has lost it."—Moncton Transcript.

Hard Lines

"What brought you to prison, man?"

"Competition, mum," was the reply.

"Competition? I don't understand."

"Yes, mum, competition. I made the same sort of half crowns as the government."—Tatler Magazine.

Try a Nice Balloon

Maiden Aunt (in department store)—Now I—er—want a nice toy, please, suitable for a small boy whose father is very corpulent and unable to do any kneeling.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Secret

He—Of course, you understand, dear, that for business reasons our engagement must be kept a secret.

She—Oh, yes, I tell everybody that.—Vancouver Province.

Too Noisy

Mrs. Oldacre—Have you a pergola in your garden.

Mrs. Newrich—Not now. We found it barked at the tradespeople, so we had to get rid of it.—Stray Stories.

WHY THEY STAYED HOME

Mrs. Jones—Why do you all stay in the house so much, Mrs. Brown?

Mrs. Brown—I'll tell you, Mrs. Jones: We pay an enormously high rent for this house and want to stay in it enough to get our money's worth, you see.

Why Higher Wages

Boss—You ask high wages for a man with no experience.

Applicant—But it is so much harder work when you don't know anything about it.

Wisecracker

Jim—Why, of course not!

John—Then how does it live?

Five Fathers See Sons President

Five fathers have lived to see their sons become President. They were John Adams, James Madison, Sr., Jesse Grant, Doctor Harding and John Coolidge. John Coolidge is the only father who had the honor of swearing in his son as chief magistrate.

North Rondouters To Meet Wilbur

Opposition for the Irish Block Nine at Wilbur Sunday afternoon will be furnished by the baseball team of the North Rondout Social Club. The game is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

Opposing batteries will be Kenny or Cullen, pitching, and Collins, catching for the Irishers and Komosa or Williams, pitching, and Raskoski, catching, for the N. R. S.

Kingston All Stars To Start Sunday

Sunday afternoon at the Kingston Fair Grounds, the Kingston All Stars will open their season. Opponents of the local club will be the Newburgh Professionals. Last week this nine defeated the Saugerties A. C. 6-2. Some of the best talent in the Hilly City and vicinity is on the roster of the Pros. Les Seaman, veteran curve ball hurler, is the main flinger and is scheduled to start tossing 'em up to the Stars.

Pitching for the All Stars will be Ted Meredith, Union College varsity star of last season. Joey Hoffman will be behind the bat.

RED HOOK TO OPPOSE SAUGERTIES IN OPENER

The Red Hook baseball club opens its season Sunday at Chanler Park, Red Hook, opposing the Saugerties Bushwicks who won over the Dutchess county champs last year, 1-0. Jack Robins of Kingston will catch for the home club, receiving the slants of Spike Van Alstyne, who pitched for the Albany International League team last summer. Maury McDermott of Poughkeepsie, a former Colonial player, will also be with Red Hook.

The Saugerties line up for this game will be: Joyce, 1st b. and p.; Benjamin, c; Bell, 3rd b.; Fraleigh, p.; Whitaker, c.f.; Baker, s.s.; Brice, l.f.; Fingar, 2nd b. and p.; Hanna, r.f., with Simmons and Ercig utility.

On Sunday, May 14, Booking Manager John T. Hoffman has signed up Buck Ewing's Colored Mohawk Giants to oppose Red Hook.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, May 3.—The condition of John Thompson of Main street has developed into pneumonia. He is under the care of Dr. Quinn of Phoenicia. Mr. Thompson's many friends sympathize keenly and hope for his speedy recovery.

Assessor Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow was a West Shokan Heights business caller on Monday.

Ground is being excavated for Robert Merrihew's new bungalow site at Brodhead High Point road intersection. Mr. Merrihew has already promised to hold a rip roaring old fashioned house warming upon its completion.

Lawrence Shurter, 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Shurter, of Samsonville has returned after spending the winter in Miami, Florida, and concluding the trip with a swing through the southern states to California, traveling back east by a more northerly route. The trip was made with Carleton E. Locke, prominent sportsman and summer resident of Samsonville.

Sanford Bell was busy with his annual job Monday ploughing the large garden plot at the Traver Hollow Inn property. Arthur Snyder, proprietor, has proven by his excellent crops that he is a gardener of no mean ability.

It is noted that Mrs. Stanley Winne of Kingston, formerly of Ashokan, was elected president of the Young Married Women's Club of the Y. W. C. A. at its annual meeting last Thursday. Mrs. Winne retains many friends about the reservoir section. All extend congratulations.

Miss Mary Dwyer and Mrs. Lily Sherman of Kingston spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Dwyer at Dwyer's Corner.

Sam Cassalina, all around farmer, who makes his residence with the Palen family at Brodhead, ploughed and harrowed the garden for Mrs. John Thompson of Main street.

The annual meeting of the Mt. Tremper Rural Cemetery Association will be held at Winchell's Hall, Shokan, Sunday, May 7, at 2:30 p. m. It is hoped that every lot owner will attend.

The spell of summer weather is just delightful but old-time experienced gardeners are not tricked into a rush for planting as they feel that there is certain to be another reaction, and plenty on short notice on the part of the weather manipulator.

Olive Rebekah Lodge, No. 470, will meet at Olive Bridge I. O. O. F. hall Thursday evening.

Elwyn Davis was appointed foreman of the grand jury at the convening of Supreme Court on Monday by Judge Staley. Lamont Simpkins of the neighboring town of Woodstock was named as assistant foreman. After organizing the grand jury adjourned until Monday afternoon, May 8.

Among numerous Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow were Golden Van Benschoten and Elmer Bedell of Shokan, also Mrs. Julia Buley and daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Williams, and children of Accord. Mrs. Buley and her daughter formerly resided at Cold Brook.

Commissioner of Highways William Jordan of Brodhead Heights, was a business caller in Kingston Monday.

Mrs. Katherine Sherman spent a very delightful week-end with friends in Kingston.

Again this year Elwyn Davis is offering customers a limited supply of his No. 9 seed potatoes.

Judge Fred L. Weidner of North Main street is putting his extensive garden plot in condition for planting.

Mrs. Harold Constable of West Shokan Heights was a Main street business caller Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Sarah Dwyer's pasture lot at West Shokan Heights supplied a truck load of laurel for transplanting by out of town parties on Tuesday.

Camels Are a Pest

A combination of circumstances seems to be working to the end of displacing the camel as the burden bearer of the desert, and the result is that thousands of these beasts are running wild, having been turned loose by their one-time owners who have no further use for them. The animals have thrived and multiplied until the country of Syria is overrun with them and the natives regard them as a pest. In some parts of the country the agricultural people are compelled to stand guard over their growing crops to prevent the droves of camels from devouring the grain. The animals roam far and wide in search of food, which has been very scarce, owing to the drought of the recent summers.

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF ULSTER—BLANCHE ROSENBERG, Plaintiff, against IDA KOWENSKY, SAM COHEN, FANNY COHEN, HOTEL SEVEN GABLES, INC., WILLIAM H. DEYO & CO., INC., PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK and SARAH EDISON, Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale granted in the above entitled action on the 3rd day of May, 1933, and entered in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster on 3rd day of May, 1933, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, on the 15th day of June, 1933, at Twelve (12) o'clock, noon, (Daylight Saving Time), the premises described in said judgment as follows:

ALL that certain tract or parcel of land situate in the Town of Wawarsing, County of Ulster, State of New York, at a place called Greenfield, bounded on the North by the lands of Dubois Fitzgerald, easterly by the lands of Sherman Smith, southerly by the lands of Frederick H. Pomeroy, deceased, and westerly by lands now or formerly in possession of John M. Schoonmaker and lands of Elias Newkirk and Quartus Stewart, containing about twenty-eight (28) acres of land. Excepting and reserving out of the above described lot, three acres off from the south end of the said lot, to Frederick H. Pomeroy, as conveyed to him by Joseph Foster and wife, being the same premises as conveyed by Hannah Foster and Joseph Foster, her husband, to Mary D. Northrop by deed dated January 2nd, 1865, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book No. 129 of Deeds, at page 210, and being the same premises of which the said Mary D. Northrop died seized and possessed.

ALSO all that tract or parcel of land situate in the Town of Wawarsing, aforesaid, Beginning at the end of a stone wall separating the lands of Kate Nichols and Addison Stratton and running thence as the needle pointed in 1810, north 49 degrees 55' west to the center of the Ellenville and Fallsburg Turnpike, thence up and along the same to the lands heretofore owned by Addison Stratton; thence along his lands in an easterly direction to the easterly bounds of the parsonage lot and thence along the easterly bounds of said parsonage lot in a southwesterly direction to the place of beginning. Being a part of the parsonage property of the Fallsburgh Circuit of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The whole of which was conveyed to said Kate Nicholas on the 11th day of November, 1891, by the Trustees of said parsonage lot. The lots and premises above described being the same which were conveyed to William Colden by Addison Stratton and wife, by deed dated April 1, 1894.

Dated, May 3, 1933.

Howe About:

Back to Recovery
Temperance
Hard Times Not Rare

By ED HOWE

IN READING I lately encountered the following sentence: "America can move forward to a new system that will solve our present difficulties, but cannot move back to recovery."

I admit it is an impressive and high-sounding paragraph, but denounce it as nonsense. It is precisely backward we must go to recovery; back to the old economy in public and private affairs.

In marching forward recklessly we have reached a dangerous position we cannot maintain; we must retreat back to safety, and reform our lines for another advance.

• • •

One of the worst American calamities was adoption of the prohibitory law, for the reason that opposition to it become general, and apparently (though not actually) whisky won a victory. Whisky is bad stuff, but in the row over prohibition (really a demand of sober men for a sounder temperance measure) the unthinking gained the impression that temperance is a bad idea. The whisky idea was thus encouraged as never before in our history.

The wisest and best men of all ages have placed temperance near the head of their recommendations. Let the sane remember that temperance is still the best word in the common sense language.

• • •

Frequent hard times with our money affairs are no more unnatural than are frequent hard times with our stomachs, our love affairs, or hard times because of too much rain, wind or snow.

Ours is a hard times world; one should have a cyclone cellar constantly handy to which to retreat. Every day something happens to cause all of us to regret we did not watch out more constantly yesterday when the weather was fair.

• • •

I hope the sane did not neglect to note that the oppressed man who attempted to kill the President-Elect at Miami, Fla., and wounded four and killed one in the crowd, gave as his excuse for the desperate act:

1. He had long suffered indigestion pains in his stomach.

2. He hated Presidents and rich men generally.

He confessed, also to making $20 a day as a bricklayer, to losing $200 at the dog races in Miami, and had a considerable sum of money on his person when arrested.

As 1,500 people witnessed the shooting, the shooter, when arraigned in court, offered to plead guilty, but the judge appointed three lawyers, at public expense, to attend him; also three physicians to relieve his indigestion.

Congress has not been more liberal and prompt in looking after the oppressed than was this Miami judge.

• • •

It has never been quite understood in London why Oscar Wilde did not get along with his wife, who, the women have asserted for years, was so patient, kind and womanly they cannot understand why any man should refuse to live with her.

A recent English book prints a story that may explain the mystery. Oscar Wilde was admittedly a very brilliant man; wherever he appeared, crowds attended to hear his conversation. It is probable he "repeated" a good deal, as all husbands do, and this repetition of old sayings and jokes must have been more familiar to his wife than to others.

Anyway, whenever and wherever Oscar Wilde began his brilliant conversation his wife left the room; she had heard him so often she was tired of it. Oscar, being a great pet, might have thought her action insulting, and started a row.

• • •

I often say literature is shiftless stuff; that no one actually cares much for it except publishers, and their hired men, the writers.

I mean no special condemnation of writers or publishers. Everything in life excites us to frequent fault finding. It is the fate of men; nothing among us is very good or satisfactory. We must select the best in everything, and get along with it as comfortably as we can.

• • •

This is good grumbling and good writing, but I cannot see how anyone will be able to get anything out of it, beyond a little intellectual thrill.

Mr. Steffens has again reminded me of my weakness; again made me uncomfortable. If this is the object of writing, then Lincoln Steffens is a good writer.

It is related in sacred history that the first woman, as soon as God created her from one of Adam's ribs, had natural modesty, and wished to clothe her nakedness. . . . This modesty on the part of Eve had a fine growth among women for centuries until lately.

I long knew a man who was accepted by people of his town as a conservative. He died penniless the other day, as a result of being caught in traps he had issued warnings against all his life.

Raleigh Chairs Auctioned

At an auction of the furniture of the mansion of R. H. Beamish, at Ashbourne, Irish Free State, a pair of oak chairs from Sir Walter Raleigh's residence were sold for $50. An oak card table with silver fittings was considered worth $25.

One Performance Of Triangle Show

Due to the large number of high class vaudeville acts on the program of the Kingston Triangle Club's big variety benefit show to be presented in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium on Tuesday evening, May 9, there will be only one performance given.

The doors will open promptly at 7:30 and the curtain will rise at 8 o'clock. No seats will be reserved.

The Youth Council orchestra which has made such a favorable impression wherever they have appeared will render a delightful concert before the curtain rises on the big show. Everyone is urged to plan on coming early in order to enjoy this part of the evening's program.

Scotch dancing is always very popular and will be interpreted in a most delightful manner by two charming little girls, Marjorie and Marion Bartlett. These little lassies will appear in Scotch costume.

Kenneth Newell, star in the Fortune Teller, recently given at the Kingston High School, has consented to appear on the program and will sing the Gypsy Love Song and several other numbers. Mr. Newell has a very charming voice and pleasing personality and will prove a real musical treat.

From all indications there will be a record breaking attendance Tuesday evening. Tickets can be purchased from any member of the Kingston Triangle Club or at the desk of the Y. M. C. A.

"Torque"

"Torque" in an automobile seems to be a mystery to many owners of cars. Webster's dictionary defines torque as "that which produces or tends to produce rotation or torsion." Not so clear. Maybe this less technical explanation would be a little easier to understand. Torque in an automobile motor is the result of the explosive power of the contents of a cylinder full of gasoline vapor being applied through the medium of a piston and connecting rod to turn the crankshaft.

Compensation Case Decision Awaited

The New York Sun of Monday had the following editorial regarding a Catskill compensation case now pending before the State Board of Industrial Commissioners. The point at issue is one of importance, as a decision in favor of the plaintiff will form a precedent affecting many other cases. The Sun said:

"An employer at Catskill operated a bus between his plant and Saugerties, where many of his employes live. Tickets good for 20 trips were issued to his workmen and $2 were deducted from the wages of each one who used the bus; some traveled in their own cars. The men were paid at an hourly rate for the time they worked in the mill. Two workmen were injured when the bus collided with another car. The State Industrial Board denied claims filed under the workmen's compensation law. It was held that the employer made a separate contract with the men to furnish transportation at a fixed charge. On this theory the injuries were not incurred in the course of employment. The decision will be tested in court on the alternative ground that if the workmen had dissociated themselves from their employment the driver of the bus was their fellow servant. He worked exclusively for the employer of the injured men, who might be held liable for that reason.

The case referred to is that of Percy Martin against The North American Cement Co. The injuries complained of were received July 2, 1931, and Martin, who was represented by Andrew J. Cook, appeared before Referee Frederick A. Hoyt and applied for compensation under the workmen's compensation law. Mr. Hoyt found that the injuries were received in the course of employment and that Martin was entitled to an award. The State Fund, which carried the insurance, appealed to the Industrial Board and Commissioner Edwards rescinded the award on the ground that the transportation was a separate contract.

The case was reopened last September, F. E. W. Darrow appearing for Martin, and Commissioner Edwards ordered that the case be sent back to Referee Hoyt for the taking of further testimony. This was done and on March 16 the commissioner confirmed his original decision, rescinding the award. The attorney then made application to have the case passed upon by the entire Industrial Board of five commissioners. The application was granted and the Board now has the case under consideration.

Electricity

No one knows just what electricity is. A general definition is that electricity is a material agency which, when in motion, exhibits magnetic, chemical and thermal effects, and which, whether in motion or at rest, is of such a nature that when it is present in two or more localities within certain limits of association a mutual interaction of force between such localities is observed. Investigations indicate that it is discrete or granular in nature and that there may be two kinds, positive and negative.

Strevell New Head Of Ellenville High

Wallace J. Strevell, a graduate of the State Teachers College at Albany and who is at present principal of the Hurleyville High School, has been engaged as supervising principal of the Ellenville High School for the coming school year. He succeeds E. C. Hoemer, who is finishing his 22nd year in charge of the Ellenville schools and who goes to take charge of the central school at Hancock.

Mr. Bates, now with the Coeymans High School and who is a graduate of Colgate, will come to Ellenville next fall as vice-principal at the high school. He will succeed Miss Ethel M. Doig, who has been with the Ellenville school for a number of years.

Final decision on filling the two positions was made at a special meeting of the Board of Education Tuesday night. At the same time the board elected William L. Douglas, of the firm of Rose & Douglas, to fill the vacancy in the board caused by the resignation of D. F. Vanderlyn some time since.
